Day of Talk Futile; Will Continue in San Francisco

Deny Yalta Deal

LONDON, April 24 [Tuesday] —(AP)—The Moscow radio said early today the question of restricting Polish participation in the San Francisco conference to a government jointly recognized by the United States, Britain, and Russia "was not even discussed at Yalta." The broadcast, quoting Tass, official Soviet news agency, said reports "in some sections of the foreign press" that it was decided at Yalta to invite only representatives of a recognized Polish government, and not representatives of the Polish government at Warsaw, "absolutely do not correspond to fact." Moscow said "this question not only was not decided, it was not even discussed."

Washington, D. C., April 23—At the close of a day marked by a rapid interplay of conferences, the United States and Great Britain today were reportedly standing firm against Russian demands for the recognition of the soviet sponsored Polish provisional government in Warsaw at the San Francisco world security conference.

Tonight the White House announced that the conversations among the American, British, and soviet foreign secretaries will be continued in San Francisco, indicating they had failed to reach an agreement on the Polish question.

Truman Sees Molotov

The rapidly paced series of diplomatic negotiations among State Secretary Stettinius, British Foreign Secretary Eden, and soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov was climaxed when President Truman summoned American diplomatic and military leaders to the White House for a showdown conference on American policy, and several hours later received Molotov.

While there was no official word, it was reliably reported that the American military and diplomatic leaders had pledged support to the new commander in chief's determination to employ a firm hand with Russia in efforts to settle Big Three differences before the west coast meeting.

Strategy Canvassed

At the White House conference were Stettinius, War Secretary Stimson, Navy Secretary Forrestal Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff; Adm. King, chief of naval operations, and Adm. Leahy, chief of staff to the commander in chief. The conference continued for an hour.

It was reported they canvassed strategy in the light of the chief executive's reported decision to end the policy of complete appeasement of the soviets.

The White House conference was followed by the Truman-Molotov meeting and a night meeting among the foreign ministers, their second of the day and third since Molotov's arrival last evening. The night conference, which lasted more than two hours, was joined by the Chinese

Big 3's Failure to Agree Clouding Parley Opening

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., April 23—Announcement in Washington that the negotiations of the Big Three on the Polish question had struck a snag and would be transferred to this city deepened the smoke screen of power politics behind which the conference of 46 nations to construct a post-war league to enforce peace is getting under way. The conference will be launched formally upon this undertaking Wednesday in a radio address of welcome by President Truman.

The failure of State Secretary Stettinius, British Foreign Secretary Eden, and Russian Commissar Molotov to reach an agreement means that the conference to end war will start off in the shadow of a rift in the unity of the big powers. Unless this cause of discord shall be speedily removed the progress of the negotiation of a peace league agreement will be considerably impeded.

Hope for Compromise

An agreement on a government of national unity for Poland, recognized by Britain, America, and Russia, would bring the Poles into the San Francisco conference and smooth the path of the deliberations here. If Russian Dictator Stalin, however, stands pat on his demand for the seating in the conference of the Polish puppet government set up by the soviet union, Poland will be unrepresented here and there is no telling what course the negotiations on the peace league will take. Conference leaders here are hoping for a compromise on the Polish question that will clear the air.

Molotov and his fellow Communists from Moscow loom large in the picture of the efforts to build a world peace league. They are in a strong trading position, for it is well known that Russian Dictator Stalin reposes little faith in a collective security organization and is intent upon insuring Russian security by erecting a barrier of satellite nations against any revival of the German menace.

Doubt Monopolistic Yield

So, from the Russian point of view it would be no tragedy if the collective security conference were to fail. Stalin is not going to depend on it anyway for Russian security and is going right ahead extending Russian hegemony in eastern Europe thru puppet governments in Poland and the Baltic and Balkan countries and thru bilateral defense treaties with the French, Czechoslovakian, his Polish puppet government, and the governments of other countries.

Molotov, therefore, may be expected to be unyielding to any amendment of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals which would interfere with the development of the Russian security program. He already has issued thru the soviet embassy in Wahington a pronouncement against any changes in the Dumbarton Oaks plan, asserting that amendment would jeopardize success at San Francisco. This utterance is generally construed to be a veiled intimation that the soviet union would quit the conference if amendments were insisted on.

INDUSTRIAL CITY NEAR TOKYO HIT BY SUPER FORTS

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—Industrial targets at Tachikawai just west of Tokyo were attacked by American Super Fortress bombers today. Inclued for the first time was the Hitachi plane engine plant.

The war department said the raiders were from Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May's 21st bomber command in the Marianas. No immediate details were available.

REPULSIVE EVEN TO MARS

Nazis Warned Against Abuse of Prisoners

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—The allies tonight sternly warned the Nazis against mistreatment of prisoners, and the United States took Germany up on an offer to leave American prisoners of war in camps as allied forces overrun areas where they are held.

[The British government, London said, also has accepted the German offer.]

Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin joined with President Truman in the warning that any person guilty of maltreating any allied prisoner of war, internee, or deported citizen will be "ruthlessly pursued and brought to punishment."

The warning was addressed to any German who has charge of prisoners anywhere. It was made carefully explicit that there can be no reliance on the excuse of orders from higher authority, or on alibis that the acts were carried out by subordinates without actual authorization.

Broadcast to Enemy

Every available means of communication, including broadcasts from Washington, London, and Moscow, was being utilized to convey the message to all commandants, guards, Gestapo agents, and other persons regardless of service or rank, who might have charge of allied nationals. Allied planes were dropping uncounted copies of the warning over the part of Germany still held by the Nazis.

"Any person guilty of maltreating or allowing any allied prisoner of war, internee or deported citizen to be maltreated, whether in the battle zone, on lines of communication, in a camp, hospital, prison, or elsewhere, will be ruthlessly pursued and brought to punishment," the statement says.

No Shifting of Blame

It adds that responsibility will be "binding in all circumstances and one which cannot be transferred to any other authorities or individuals whatsoever."

Those specifically addressed, it says, "no less than the German high command and the competent German military, naval and air authorities, will be held individually responsible."

The German offer to leave prisoners of war where they may be liberated by advancing allied armies was transmitted thru the Swiss government, a joint announcement by the war and state departments said.

The statement said it applied to "all prisoners of war" but this government's acceptance was for itself alone and only as applied to American prisoners.

Effective Last Sunday

"The government of the United States," the state-war announcement said, "informed the Swiss government that unless word to the contrary was received from Germany by midnight Sunday, April 22, 1945 [Bern, Switzerland, time—6 p. m. Chicago war time], the government of the United States would consider this arrangement as being in effect as between itself and the German government as it relates to American prisoners of war, and as being operative as of that time and date.

"As of the time specified, no word to the contrary had been received from the German government."

Allied armies so far have overrun 47 of the 78 camps and hospitals where American soldiers are known to have been held, the war and state departments said, but at last reports the Nazis still held some 60,000 to 65,000 American war prisoners.

Union Strikes Against Draft of Its Chief

One of the reasons why 150 members of local 625, International Brotherhood of Drop Forgers, Blacksmiths and Helpers [AFL], are on strike at the Pettibone-Mulliken corporation plant, 4710 Division st., is that John Nechistak, president of the local faces induction into the army next Monday, it was learned yesterday.

Work stoppages began at midnight Friday after the union had voted to strike in protest against the company's tactics regarding four grievances on file, including one that charged the company with "railroading" Nechistak into military service.

Nechistak recently was reclassified to 1-A fron. 2-A [essential worker], which he has held since 1941. His selective service board at 3352 Lake st. would not explain the change in draft status.

Company Denies Union Charge

The union president is 29 years old, married, and the father of two children. He lives at 2825 S. Kenneth av., and is employed as a welder at the plant.

Company officials denied that they had "railroaded" Nechistak. An official explained that the company had recently listed with the government procurement agency employes essential to war work at the plant and that Nechistak was "neither at the front of the list nor in the rear."

The procurement agent did not list Nechistak as essential. The company gave this as the reason why the union president had not been "declared necessary to the plant's production of 155 millimeter and 8 inch howitzer gun carriages."

Leader's Plea Rejected

At a meeting of the strikers yesterday at 1643 N. Cicero av., Nechistak pleaded with the strikers to return to their war work in the plant, but they voted to stay out until the management agreed to "use its influence" to have Nechistak classed an essential worker. A committee of the strikers was instructed to arrange a meeting with company officials to tell the strikers' demands.

A strike by 400 of 425 employes of the Western Foundry company, 3634 S. Western av. which began a week ago, continued to tie up production of gray iron and steel castings needed by the army and navy. The strike is the fifth at the plant since 1943 called by members of local 2674, United Steelworkers' union [CIO].

RUSSIANS HALT BERLIN COUNTER BLOW; 3D ARMY'S ARMOR SMASHES 53 MILES

Battle Spreads to Half of Wrecked Capital

LONDON, April 24 [Tuesday]—(AP)—With guns of Nazi SS fanatics at their backs, German troops counter-attacked vainly in Berlin today. The Russians swarmed over one-third of the city and German reports indicated savage fighting was swirling thru nearly one-half of the wrecked capital.

Some observers speculated that the entire city might fall within two days. Another 11,000 prisoners were herded into Red army cages.

Germans said Adolf Hitler himself was directing the defense, but conflicting neutral reports left his whereabouts in doubt.

Southwest of the burning city, Red army tanks—climaxing a dramatic 100 mile sweep in seven days—reached the Elbe at Muehlberg northwest of Dresden. The river approach was made on a 38 mile front.

The advance brought the Russians within 20 miles of American forces. A three-power announcement of a linkup was expected momentarily. The drive to the Elbe isolated Berlin from the Nazis' national redoubt to the south and effectively split Hitler's "Fortress Europe" in two.

City Almost Encircled

Berlin was almost encircled. A supplement to the soviet bulletin said early today that two Russian armies, attacking after a massive artillery barrage, had hurled the Germans back into the inner built-up area of Berlin.

Marshal Stalin disclosed that only a 16 mile gap remained to be sealed on the west. The Germans admitted it had been narrowed to 10 miles and the Luxemburg radio broadcast an unconfirmed report that the city was caught in a steel ring.

The soviet war report said Russian tanks burst across the belt railroad protecting the inner city and captured the metropolitan gas works, only eight blocks from Alexander Platz, one of Berlin's major commercial centers. Several blocks in the area were seized after heavy German counter-attacks were repelled.

Retreating Nazis Shelled

Moscow said German commanders asked permission to retreat but the orders came back:

"Hold out at any event—whoever retreats will be shot." German artillery had been ordered by radio to fire on retreating German soldiers, Moscow said.

The Nazi underground werewolf radio said "traitors" fired on German troops in northern Berlin. Werewolf commandos hauled out the traitors and shot them, the broadcast said.

Defenders of the sprawling capital were fighting a losing battle. Late last night the German radio—in probably the most authoritative report from the city—said the soviets were fighting on Friedrich's park and near Koenigs gate, a mile and a half from the center of the city at the intersection of Unter den Linden and Friedrichstrasse.

Four Near-by Towns Taken

Stalin announced that Russian forces under the 99 generals and 50 other commanding officers of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian army had captured five major districts of Berlin proper and four outlying towns.

In the city, Zhukov swept into Pankow, populous working class industrial district on the north, three miles from the city, and on the east captured Coepenik, Friedrichsfelde, Wandlitz and Karlshorst.

At the same time, Zhukov's troops surged westward north of the city and captured Oranienburg, 17 miles northeast of the heart of Berlin, took near-by Birkenwerder, and surged across the Havel river in the northern arm of a closing pincer on the city. They won Hennisdorf on Lake Tegel and were reported in German broadcasts to have swept

Don't Worry, Nazis Tell Americans; It's Today

Dispatches indicated today that American and Russian troops already have met or that a juncture is imminent. The reports follow:

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY, April 23 (AP)—American front line troops, a few miles away, today asked Red troops over the radio when they were going to effect a juncture. "Quit worrying," broke in a German voice. "You will make contact with your Russian hoodlum friends soon—probably tomorrow."

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—The Luxemburg radio reported today without confirmation that American and Russian troops had made their long awaited junction at Torgau, on the Elbe river northeast of Leipzig.

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—Russian forces today reached the Elbe river at Muehlberg and a three power announcement of a linkup was expected momentarily.

LONDON, April 23 (Reuters)—The linkup between the armies of Marshal Stalin and Gen. Eisenhower is said in reports from the United States to have already taken place east of Eilenburg, 10 miles northeast of Leipzig.

[American troops were reported in Eilenburg yesterday.]

HINT JUNCTION TODAY

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, April 23 (AP)—Russian troops in front line radio conversations with waiting American tankmen hinted that the junction of soviet and United States forces might take place tomorrow.

As German army listeners tried to jam the reception and repeatedly broke in on one wave length with jeering commentaries and songs, a Russian speaker, translated by Staff Sgt. Alexander J. Balter of Pittsburgh, Pa., Russian-born American tankman, said:

"Cheering greetings to our allied comrades. God be with you. Greetings and health to our allied friends. Wait where you are. Hold your patience. We will contact you at your present location."

35 Mile Radio Range

At this point the Russian soldier hinted the meeting might come as soon as tomorrow. He gave no indication whatsoever of the exact Russian position—as this information would have been of value to the Germans. However, field radios used for this contact between the waiting Americans and advancing Russians have only a 30 to 35 mile maximum range.

"We are getting closer to you continually," the Russian voice continued during contacts between noon and 6 p. m.

"Are Not Sleeping"

"More than that cannot be said now. We Russians are not sleeping and are doing everything in our power to reach you."

During one period of radio contact the Germans jammed it briefly by having a woman sing "Ach du Lieber Augustine."

Later, during another conversation, a German accented voice said jeeringly in English:

"Yes, it will be a great meeting."

Balter, who was born in Kiev, speaks Russian and German. He returned to his post with an armored division only a week ago after a 30 day home leave in the United States.

Sweeps Up 33,000 Prisoners in Push Toward Alps

NEW WAR MAPS

Turn to the back page for a new detailed map of Berlin, showing areas already captured by the Russians. Also on the back page are maps detailing the action on the western front, in Italy and on Okinawa. There is also a map of Denmark, which may become one of the last countries in which the Nazis hold out.

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—The United States 3d army, running wild across the northern approaches to Hitler's Alpine fortress in a powerful new offensive, swept up 33,000 German defenders and smashed today to within possibly 75 miles of Munich.

As the whole 225-mile southern front burst into flame from Switzerland to invaded Czechoslovakia, the United States 7th army crossed the Danube and prepared to drive on Munich 50 miles to the east as the French 1st reached the Swiss frontier and drove within 29 miles of Austria on the 7th army's right flank.

In 24-hour gains of 53 miles or more, Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army tank columns, moved secretly and swiftly 125 miles from the Chemnitz sector, struck south with stunning force, and scattered the SS troops [elite guard] which Hitler has chosen to stand and die in the south.

One Column Near Regensburg

One armored column rumbled up 13 miles from the Danubian stronghold of Regensburg and about 75 miles north of Munich, which lies at the northern edge of the Alpine redoubt.

Other Patton columns, after crossing the Naab river, swept almost unopposed 23 miles southeast thru disorganized defenses into Haag and Wetterfeld, northeast of Regensburg and 43 miles southwest of the Czech armaments city of Pilsen.

The 11th armored division was in the van of the new 3d army offensive as it severed one after another the lines of supply into Hitler's redoubt from the munitions cities of Czechoslovakia.

It captured two bridges intact across the Naab river and sent two tank columns surging southeastward, scattering the German forces or by-passing those who tried to stand. A field dispatch said opposition was minor along the entire front.

The Americans were 110 miles from Hitler's mountain home at Berchtesgaden, and about 155 miles or so from the Russians pounding up thru Austria.

Hits on 65 Mile Front

The 3d army was hammering away on a 65 mile front. It was four miles or more into Czechoslovakia on the northern part of the front after capturing Dolreuth and Thonbrun, two miles east and three miles north, respectively, of the captured Czech city of Asch.

A field dispatch said the 3d army troops were disappointed that they had not been allowed to strike for Berlin, but were enthusiastic about the new campaign, offering possibilities of bringing the war to a swift conclusion by dismembering the southern redoubt.

In its southward plunge, the 3d army knocked out the stronghold of Neumarkt, where the Germans had checked the United States 7th army southeast of Nuernberg. Amberg, 30 miles north of Regensburg, was captured.

The attack jumped off in a rain, but a colonel said, "Nothing can stop our boys now. They are in for the kill."

Patton's blows were dealt in concert with those of the United States 7th and French 1st armies, already 29 to 48 miles from the western-most ramparts of the redoubt and pouring southward in tremendous strength.

The Danube river line was bucklling under the impact of the United States 7th army's armored attack, which carried across the historic barrier 50 miles west of Munich and was closing up to the stream on a 50-mile front.

Deepen Danube Bridgehead

The 7th army deepened its Danube bridgehead at Dillingen to four miles, hammering back elite troops rushed up to meet it, and was six miles from a super-highway leading into Munich.

Other 7th army armored forces stabbed to the Danube 48 miles from the western outpost of the Nazis' Alpine retreat on the eastern shores of Lake Constance.

The 10th armored division of Lt. Gen. Patch's United States 7th army reached the Danube at Ehlingen, 45 miles southwest of its Dillingen bridgehead and 48 miles from the eastern tip of Lake Constance.

The 12th armored division, which captured the Danube river bridge at Dillingen intact on Sunday, was pouring in a tremendous weight of tanks.

Fail to Smash Bridge

The Germans tried without success to knock out the 600 foot bridge in air attacks, but the air field from which the planes were being launched finally was brought under artillery fire. The bridge stood undamaged.

The French on the west, after capturing the Vichy regime's hideout at Sigmaringen, drove two spearheads 15 miles east to Kappel and Altshausen, where they were 29 miles from the border of Austria at the eastern tip of Lake Constance.

The French held a line from the lake for 20 miles west along the Swiss frontier, and were fast closing up to the Swiss border along the Rhine and putting the squeeze on the Black Forest trap.

In a 10 mile southward push they reached Muellheim, 17 miles north of Basel, Switzerland.

Wait for Reds to Come Up

In the center of the western front the United States 1st and 9th armies waited for the imminent link-up with Russian troops.

The United States 1st army, however, completed the subjugation of Dessau, city of 120,000 population 52 miles southwest of Berlin, and captured 21,373 more prisoners on Sunday, most of them in the Dessau fighting.

The United States 9th army, for its part, contented itself with the capture of Dannenburg, on the Elbe's west bank 20 miles southeast of the eastern limits of the British 2d army's 50 mile hold on the river.

British Storm Bremen

The British 2d army opened the final assault on Bremen, Germany's second largest port, after the garrison ignored a surrender ultimatum, attacking the flaming city with troops and tanks while bombers pounded the enemy defenses into rubble.

The British attacking Bremen from the south and east ran into the fire of anti-aircraft guns depressed as artillery.

One force trying to break in at the back door across the Weser river was six and a half miles east of the blazing city.

To the north, the British still were fighting in Harburg, suburb of Hamburg.

The Canadian 1st army, balked in a direct assault on the flood line guarding Holland's biggest cities, crossed the Maas river in a surprise assault 15 miles south of Utrecht and 25 miles east of Rotterdam. The Germans appeared to be withdrawing across the Neder Rhine, 10 miles to the north.

Poles Beyond Ems

On the far-off Alpine front, French mountain troops penetrated into the Italian province of Piedmont, which lies along the eastern French and southern Swiss borders.

In northwestern Germany, Polish tanks and infantry pushed on north beyond the Ems river to a point only 6½ miles from the U-boat base at Emden. Coastal guns guarding the port were turned inland on the advancing Poles.

Farther east, Canadian armor and infantry were converging slowly on Oldenburg, capital of Cuxhaven province at the southern approaches to Wilhelmshaven.

Despite stern resistance, the Canadians cut the Emden-Oldenburg highway and were about four and a half miles from Oldenburg on both the south and west.

Seize Bridge Mined with Bombs

American 7th army troops roll captured American bombs off Danube river bridge at Dillingen, Germany, which Germans had placed to augment mines for destroying the bridge. Speed of the Yank advance led to capture of the bridge intact Sunday.

COUNTER ATTACK HALTED BY RED ARMY IN BERLIN

Fighting Spreads to Half of City

into the northwestern suburb of Heiligensee.

Meanwhile, as Stalin disclosed that Frankfurt on the Oder, 33 miles east of Berlin, fell, troops of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukrainian army plunged into Berlin from the south, breaking thru the German defense ring based on the circular highway.

Tetlow Captured

Konev's forces captured Tetlow, 16 miles south of Zhukov's troops at Hennisdorf and only 10 miles below forces which were reported by the Germans to have swept south of Hennisdorf to the Hohenzollern canal east of Spandau.

Konev's troops pushed into the southern half of the city by capturing Marienfelde and Moscow dispatches said that Tempelhof also had been entered. One unconfirmed report said that the great Tempelhof airdrome, cratered by artillery and aerial bombardment, had been captured.

In southeastern Berlin there was no indication from Moscow whether Zhukov's and Konev's armies had closed an eight mile wide neck of a 1,500 mile sack of enemy resistance in the area between the Spree river and the Spree-Oder canal. Thousands of enemy troops were threatened with encirclement in the area between Berlin and captured Cottbus, 47 miles southeast, and Frankfurt on the Oder and Luebben on the Spree.

A Stalin order of the day announced that Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko's 4th Ukrainian army in the Silesian basin had captured the German-Czechoslovak border bastion of Opava [Troppau], guarding the gate to central Moravia, one of the last remaining German arsenals.

Besides low-flying Stormoviks which hour after hour bombed and strafed defense positions, the Russians adopted a new air technique—cub planes which bombed individual buildings and strongpoints from rooftop altitude.

GERMAN BULLETIN

The German Monday bulletin as recorded by the Associated Press:

In the Austrian border region our counter-attacks south of Semmering gained more ground. Southeast of St. Poelten the enemy advanced considerably to the west in the Goelsen sector. Northwest of Mistelbach and south of Bruenn new bolshevik attempts to break thru failed after stiff fighting. Northeast of Moravska Ostrava the coherence of the front, temporarily lost, was restored.

Between the Sudeten mountains and Stettiner Haff heavy fighting is going on. Strong enemy forces were cut off from their rear communications by spirited counter-attacks northeast of Stoerneck and a further advance westward was prevented.

Near Spremberg our battle groups also offered bitter resistance. Cottbus, however, was lost.

The battle for the reich capital has flared up with full fury. South of the town our troops checked strong bolshevik armored forces on the Beelitz-Seddin-Teltow-Dahlewitz line. The railway station of Coepenick, which was temporarily lost, was retaken.

An enemy breach along the Prenzlauer Allee was sealed off. North of the town Russian spearheads reached the Havel.

In the Frankfurt area and on the northern part of the Oder front fluctuating fighting continues.

JENA GERMANS ASK NAZIS BE PUT TO WORK REBUILDING COUNTRY

JENA, Germany, April 21 [Delayed]—(AP)—A German plan to put Nazis and Nazi sympathizers to work in labor gangs to restore Germany was brought to the attention of American authorities here today.

Maj. Hugo W. Hefleifinger, Beatrice, Neb., military government officer, received the plan from a group of Germans of Jena representing the old Democrat, Social Democrat, and Communist political parties. The Germans insisted they spoke for the majority of anti-Nazi elements in the city.

The Americans were too busy with supply problems and maintaining order among thousands of foreign workers to act upon the suggestions now.

PATTON PLUNGES TOWARD DANUBE; FREES CAPTIVES

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY, Germany, April 23—Lt. Gen. Patton's forces continued to plunge ahead today toward the Danube thru a combination of mud and squalls of rain and sleet rather than enemy resistance. The new front was reached by a southward side-step of 125 miles during two days of bad weather, hampering enemy reconnaissance, and two days of news black-out by censors.

Allied prisoners of war and enslaved laborers are being liberated, and Germans and Hungarians are surrendering in numbers still to be tallied. Serbian, Polish, and French liberated prisoners were wandering about the streets of newly captured villages.

On the front we met Staff Sgt. James J. Hayes of the field artillery, on leave from his job as assistant paymaster of THE TRIBUNE. We also saw Lt. Carl R. Peterson of Grand Rapids, Mich., who attended the American Academy of Arts in Chicago for two years before entering service in 1941.

LIFE STRUGGLE IS NEAR CLIMAX —HITLER TO DUCE

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, reported by Nazi sources to be still in Berlin, cried out today to his one time axis partner, Benito Mussolini, that the "struggle for our very existence has reached its climax."

The German radio quoted Hitler's message to Mussolini as saying:

"The struggle for our very existence has reached its climax. Employing vast masses of material, bolshevism and the troops of Jewry are staking all with the object of combining their destructive forces in Germany to precipitate our continent into chaos."

"Traitors" Reported Shot

As the fuehrer sent his despairing report to the deposed duce in Milan, the Nazi "werewolf" radio hinted at a grim and fratricidal denouement inside the embattled capital. The broadcast on fighting among Germans said "traitors" were firing at German troops from several blocks of buildings.

"When the traitors in blocks of flats in a northern Berlin district opened fire on German troops," the station said, "a werewolf commando unit was detached to eliminate the traitors' nest. After a fierce battle the werewolves stormed the building and brought out the surviving traitors. They were shot in the streets."

Earlier, Nazi propagandists broadcast that Hitler, with Gauleiter Paul Joseph Goebbels at his side, was in Berlin "directing from the front line." Tonight, a station broadcasting on the wavelength used by the werewolves changed this to say Hitler was not in the city but that Goebbels, "the fuehrer's trusted friend, is directing the Berlin volkssturm."

Stockholm heard that the Nazi government had gone to Salzburg in the south, and the Free Dutch radio declared Hitler had fled to a northern redoubt in Mecklenburg province, adjacent to Denmark.

March on Berlin Ordered

The latest Nazi broadcast said Hitler issued "an order for the German troops from the west to march upon Berlin. The first of these test units already has reached the capital periphery. There is no doubt a few days, perhaps a few hours, will decide this battle."

"There are two bastions—Berlin and Prague [capital of pre-war Czechoslovakia]—which we cannot abandon unless the whole of Europe is to go down with us," the message said.

Travelers reaching the Swedish port of Malmo declared that SS troops machinegunned hunger demonstrators in Hamburg two days ago, killing 30 and wounding many others.

The Stockholm newspaper Tidningen reported from a "special source in Berlin" that Hitler tore shoulder ornaments off Field Marshal Von Rundstedt and reduced him to a private in a burst of rage after Americans captured the Remagen bridge across the Rhine intact last month.

Chicago Yank Reads News to Freed Reds in Russian

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, April 23—At the 103d United States army general hospital in this country, where hundreds of Russians liberated from German prisoner of war camps have been taken to recuperate from the rigors of the severe prison life, the daily news broadcast is read over the camp's loudspeaker system in the Russian language by Corp. Emil Lulkin of Chicago.

1ST ARMY READY TO HAIL REDS, IF IT CAN FIND THEM

Patrols Out to Lend History a Hand

BY JOHN THOMPSON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY, Germany, April 23—"Patrol activity" tells today's story of this army very well. The 1st army front had nothing to report on what it hopes will be a historic meeting, the juncture with the Russians.

The Russians are somewhere out in front, but no one knows just where. Messages intercepted on field radios revealed little more than that the Russians were in Germany. Signal officers could make guesses about the distance between the two forces, but conceded they were strictly from the crystal ball.

Uncertainty Is Everywhere

All of this makes for a feeling of uncertainty from headquarters down to the G. I. with a rifle sitting on a lonely hill and peering into the rainy mists for Ivan.

Hordes of correspondents are camped along the front line, just as they probably are with the 9th army. For no one, as far as is known here, from supreme headquarters on down, knows exactly where the Russians will choose to make the linkup.

Every one, however, is hopeful. Protocol for the meeting has been established by the various generals so that no one will get in another's hair, and arrangements have been made for liaison between the highest commanders of each force so that they may get together quickly.

Correspondents hope that the brass hats can arrange a quick meeting and settle such things as control of territory.

Soviet Writer Shows Up

If the appearance of Maj. Michael Jdanow means anything, the 1st army may be in the right spot and play a historical role.

Jdanow is a war correspondent for Tass, the Russian official news agency. He has been covering the allied armies for eight months in Italy, southern France, Paris, and Germany. He arrived today with Capt. Peter C. Oustinoff, Red Hook, N. Y.

Illinois Brothers Meet in Hospital in Britain

LONDON, April 23—Pvt. Edward A. Crowell, 19, Cobden, Ill., and his brother, Sgt. Robert L., 21, Rockford, Ill., recently met in a British hospital. Edward had been wounded in the shoulder by a shell fragment near the Rhine river. Robert is a mess sergeant at a hospital in England.

WATCH ON ELBE FOR REDS KEEPS YANKS FRETTING

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE 83D DIVISION BRIDGEHEAD BEYOND THE ELBE RIVER, Germany, April 23—The only Yank forces across the Elbe river, who have been holding a restricted bridgehead for 12 days without budging, waited all day again today for Russian armored elements to contact them.

Russian flares were seen on the Berlin front, a possible indicator that the Red army was approaching the 9th under cover of night.

Every one, from military policemen guarding pontoon bridges to colonels commanding regiments, as he waited in enforced idleness, gossiped and fretted about the Russians or remained near radio trucks where G. I. operators of Russian extraction who understand Russian listened for signals from Red army spearheads.

Red Praises Our Radio

The Yanks tuned in a Russian task force, identified the American outfit, and asked if the Russians could hear.

"Sure, we hear you; you got damned fine radio set—it has lovely tone," said a Russian voice in English, then switched off.

Other messages picked up were in women's voices in code. Speculation was rife on whether it's true the Russian tanks carry girl radio operators or whether the girls were at some central station.

They Can't Miss.

Staff officers fruitlessly scanned the Russian war bulletins for an inkling of the proximity of the Red forces. The place names mentioned by Berlin or Moscow gave no exact information.

"I don't see how they can miss us, as we are the only elements of the American army east of the Elbe," said Lt. Col. Blake Crabill, Galax, Va.

YANKS WIN RACE TO PO; CUT OFF NAZI THOUSANDS

Rip Apart Remnants of 2 Fleeing Armies

WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT THE PO RIVER, Italy, April 23 (AP)—Great stretches of the Lombardy plains were aflame today as the United States 5th army thrust to the southern bank of the Po, apparently cutting off the escape of thousands of Germans desperately trying to reach this "back door" to safety.

Combined assaults by tanks, infantry, artillery, and aircraft ripped apart great portions of the remnants of two German armies which had been racing the American advance to the river.

Freed from the mountain shackles which for 19 months measured their advances in yards each week, the American troops rocketed some 30 miles across the Lombardy plains in 50 hours.

Roar Across Plains

Many Nazi troops who had fought fiercely in the Apennines were being killed or taken prisoner as Lt. Gen. Truscott's troops roared northward across the flat lands, and in several places burst out onto the southern bank of the Po.

The German flight apparently was a mass exodus of all enemy units east of the American 5th and British 8th armies' surges.

One American unit reported that prisoners from five different German divisions were picked up in a matter of two miles. The commander of one of the divisions—a lieutenant general—was killed.

Mile after mile of the great valley was one giant mass of flame, and smoke, and men.

Break Into Ferrara

ROME, April 23 (AP)—British 8th army forces broke into the outskirts of Ferrara tonight against stubborn German rearguard resistance, front dispatches declared, while allied headquarters announced that units of both the 8th and the American 5th army had advanced to undisclosed points on the southern banks of the Po river.

Associated Press Correspondent George Palmer reported from the front that British troops, despite extensive enemy demolition work, were closing in on Ferrara, 30 miles north and slightly east of recently captured Bologna.

The thrust to the Po by-passed Modena, a city of 92,000, 22 miles northwest of Bologna.

NORSE PROTEST SWEDE REFUSAL TO OUST NAZIS

LONDON, April 23 [Reuters]—The Norwegian government has sent a firm reply to the recent note from the Swedish government which turned down Norway's request for assistance in clearing the Germans from Norway.

The Norwegian reply expressed a deep sense of disappointment and says the grounds which the Swedish government gives for its rejection are invalid.

The Swedish note, it reported, had stated that the Swedish government considered it Norway's foremost interest to bring about a solution which will cause the least possible bloodshed and destruction, and that this could not happen were Sweden to give pretexts for further violence and destruction. The Swedish view that the Germans in Norway might surrender without fighting is considered unrealistic.

British Destroy Sedan Carrying Nazi Leaders

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—Dispatches from Germany reported today that a British cavalry unit shelled a large black German sedan speeding along the Bremen-Hamburg road under escort of a large number of Nazi soldiers. The blast demolished the car and destroyed those in it. The size of the escort gave rise to speculation that Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chief, who was reported in that region last week, or some other leading Nazi, may have been among the victims.

YANKS CLING TO DANUBE BRIDGE UNDER NAZI FIRE

Expand Holding as Tanks Pour Across

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, Germany, April 23—The 12th armored division today clung fast to its bridgehead on the south bank of the Danube below Dillingen under enemy bombing, strafing, and artillery fire, and even expanded the holding, while one of the division's reconnaissance squadrons reached another point on the north bank of the river.

Generally the picture tonight was of the Germans' resistance crumbling above the Danube as all 7th army units shoved toward the famed water barrier to set the stage to gain the prize of Munich. There are still pockets of the enemy above the Danube.

Seize River Positions

Combat command A of Maj. Gen. Roderick Allep's 12th armored, in addition to forcing the Danube at Dillingen, had elbowed out to seize two north bank positions at Lauingen, four miles southwest of Dillingen, and Hoechstadt, the same distance northeast of Dillingen, and later today the 92d reconnaissance squadron of the division reached the river at Erlingshofen, four miles southwest of Donauwoerth, an important Danube station. The squadron made Erlingshofen after an 18 mile dash southeast from Bopfingen, which is also the northern terminus of the armor's corridor to Dillingen.

Forty miles southwest of the Dillingen bridgehead the 10th armored division reached the Danube at Ehingen.

The Danube is 250 feet from shore to shore around Dillingen, and the bridge there is 25 feet wide and, with its approaches, 600 feet long. It had been well prepared for demolition by the enemy with one 1,200 pound bomb and 15 500 pound bombs attached to the spans and abutments. But combat command A came down so rapidly yesterday that the Germans had not time to set off the explosives, 500 of the enemy were captured on the south bank, and others were killed in their own mine fields trying to get away.

Hurl Shells at Bridehead

Sunday evening German JU-88s strafed the bridge, and one was shot down. Just before 3 a. m. today the Germans strafed again, and an hour later four ME-109s and a jet plane bombed and strafed. But the bridge was still intact and our tanks poured across to enlarge the bridgehead to four miles below the river and five miles east of Kicklingen. All day the Germans hurled shells and mortars into the bridgehead.

There are indications now that the Germans have three lines of defense left. The first is from Ulm on the Danube to the eastern edge of Lake Constance, the second from Lake Constance to Munich, with Kempten a particularly strong point, and the last south of Munich in the Alps—what may be the national redoubt.

Tell of Need

Now housing nearly 400 more patients than it originally was built to accommodate, Vaughan General hospital at Hines is in acute need of civilian workers. There is immediate need for 123 men and women to staff the hospital adequately.

All possible medical attention is being given the combat wounded patients by army physicians and surgeons, but there is a shortage of clerks in the administrative department, attendants in the wards and mess halls, clerks in the post exchange, truck drivers, and laundry workers.

New employes accepted by Capt. S. H. Taylor, civilian personnel director, will be hired under civil service rules and will receive full civil service rights.

Applicants may go direct to the civilian personnel office in the hospital at Roosevelt rd. and 1st st., Hines, or to the USES office, 807 Madison st., Oak Park, where wounded veterans are on duty to answer questions about jobs.

FRENCH TO EQUIP 8 MORE DIVISIONS WITH LEND-LEASE

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—The French embassy said today eight more army divisions are being equipped under American lend-lease and that the French air force is being doubled in size.

The first eight divisions readied for battle aggregated 225,000 men, Jean Monnet, special lend-lease envoy, said in a statement issued by the embassy. He added the American navy is maintaining more than a score of refitted French ships.

Monnet placed the total value of military equipment and supplies received under lend-lease at more than one billion dollars. Civilian relief supplies, which totaled 242,401 tons from D-day to the end of 1944, jumped to 383,532 tons in the January-March quarter, and April shipments may approach 185,000 tons.

BERLIN ANARCHY TOLD AS PLANE REACHES MALMO

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

MALMO, Sweden, April 23—A passenger plane arrived here this morning from Berlin unexpectedly as it was generally believed here that all services had terminated last week. The plane landed in Warnemuende for refueling as gasoline is not obtainable in sufficient quantity in Berlin. Passengers said conditions at the Berlin airport gave an idea of the chaos in the reich capital.

Not a single policeman or Gestapo official was seen at the airport and passengers left without any examination of their passports or baggage.

Gestapo Fears Vengeance

According to these passengers anarchy reigns in some parts of Berlin. The Gestapo's power is slipping and in some quarters they have been obliged to go underground to escape those eager to avenge wrongs.

Foreign workers now move openly about Berlin and collaborate with anti-Nazi elements. Many of these workers and deserters as well as ordinary citizens have armed themselves at plundered arms depots; everything is on the point of disintegration but SS troops are holding out stubbornly against the Russians.

Himmler Signs Orders

Nobody can say who is really in charge of the German capital. One thing known is that Heinrich Himmler was seen in the city as late as Saturday and orders to the troops are signed by him, one traveler asserted.

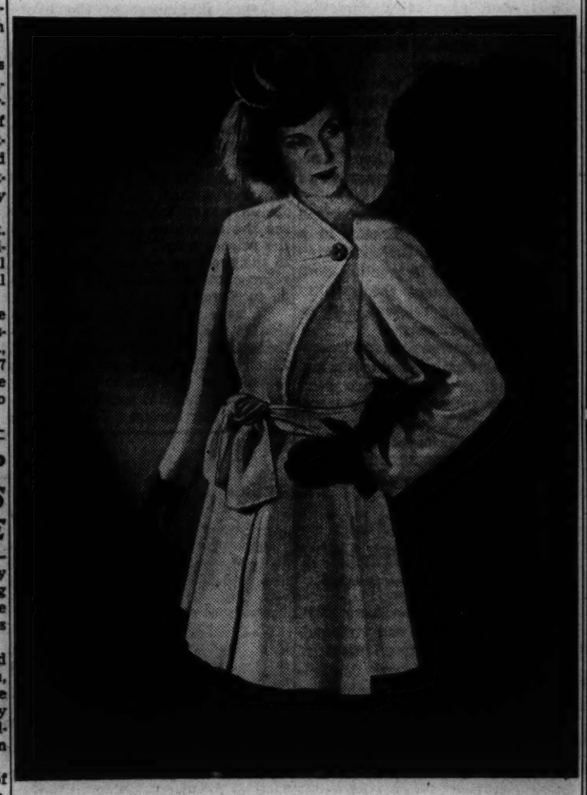

Hitler has however, not been seen by any one in Berlin. Troops available for the defense are estimated at about 100,000, almost exclusively SS men, as little trust is put in the regular army.

ALLIED-RUSSIAN COMMAND UNITY HELD UNLIKELY

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, April 21 [Delayed]—(AP)—It is unlikely that there will be a supreme commander of allied forces when the Russians from the east and the allies from the west link up in the middle of Germany, it was made clear here tonight.

Gen. Eisenhower is expected to remain supreme commander in the west without a change in his job or his instructions to smash nazism and destroy the German army and the German ability to wage war. In the east, Marshal Stalin and his commanders will work out their own goal.

Details of the correlation of command will be worked out as they arise.

REDS FREE 862 CHILDREN IN NAZI ATROCITY CAMP

Forced to Work or Be Beaten, Charge

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—A Nazi atrocity camp for children, where hundreds of emaciated youngsters were forced to toil on German estates under threat of beatings, was found by advancing Russian armies in Poland, the soviet embassy in London disclosed today.

Making public a report by Lt. Col. K. R. Sokolenko of the Red army medical service, the embassy said 862 children, ranging in ages from 2 to 15 years, were found in a gloomy building in Konstantinov, near Lodz.

"Don't shoot—we're soviet children," was the cry that greeted Red army units when they advanced on the building, Sokolenko reported. The troops hastily distributed all the food they had on hand, then called on Moscow for more food and medical aid.

Dressed in Rags

"We found an enormous three story factory building with broken windows and walls, surrounded with barbed wire," said the officer. "In the yard were hundreds of pale, emaciated children dressed in filthy rags. Some were in castoff German uniforms. Some wore bits of wood as shoes, attached to their feet with rope.

"As we entered a little boy of about 5, who was the first to notice us, shouted loudly, 'Attention.'

"What happened then was somehow more terrible even than the physical wretchedness of the children, for at the little boy's shout all of them remained rooted to the spot. With frightened faces they stood rigidly at attention.

"My companions were shaken. These little children were children no longer, but beings grown old, with hearts and souls crushed."

Sokolenko said the children were cared for by 24 women, mothers of some of the smallest children.

Ate Soup and Grass

"Among them were 463 children the Nazis had transferred from Maidanek. The rest came from the Salaspils camp in Latvia. They were all Russians, Ukrainians, and White Russians. They told us their parents had been burned in the Maidanek ovens.

"At Konstantinov they slept on boards covered with filthy rags. They were roused early each morning, lined up and sent off to work on a German estate. Each child of seven or older was given a definite quota of work. If he failed to complete it, his food was stopped and he was beaten.

"I examined the children. Each had a number tattooed on his left shoulder. Many were suffering from tuberculosis. Others had skin diseases and dysentery. A number were in such extreme states of exhaustion that they could not be moved immediately."

NAZIS GROW FAT IN PRISON CAMP, SAYS ARIZONAN

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—Nazi prisoners of war, "all overfed and fat as pigs," lounge lazily about the Papago park, Ariz., prison camp, Rep. Harless [D., Ariz.] declared today.

"Only about one-third of the prisoners do any work," said Harless. "They're not required to, and their only encouragement is the 80 cents a day pay."

Harless said that before a new commandant recently was put in charge of the camp the prisoners dined on butter, steaks, ham, and bacon, the same food served to air cadets at nearby Luke field.

He added that altho the diet has been switched to bologna, meatloaf, and macaroni, the real trouble lies with orders issued by the war department.

245 "Strikers" Return

Rupert, Idaho, April 23 (AP)—Two hundred forty five German prisoners of war returned to work today in southern Idaho fields after two days on a bread and water diet.

Forty others, described by camp commandant Lt. Col. D. E. Smith as "ringleaders" in a strike, remained in the guardhouse with plenty of water to drink but "not too much" bread to eat.

PRINCESS' DEATH IN NAZI PRISON CAMP REPORTED

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—Christian Ozanne, former Havas News agency correspondent, said today Princess Mafalda of Hesse, who was wounded by a bomb splinter eight months ago at the Buchenwald concentration camp, died in a section of the camp which was used as a brothel.

The French journalist said the princess, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, had been interned at the request of her husband, Prince Philip of Hesse, an ardent Nazi, who denounced his wife as not being enthusiastic enough about the Hitler regime.

She and her children lived in a villa in a separate section of the camp, Ozanne added. She was reported wounded in the shoulder by a bomb splinter in an allied air raid on the area Aug. 26, 1944. Ozanne said he did not know what happened to the Princess' children.

Ozanne and Maurice Negre, another former correspondent of Havas, French news agency, estimated that between 150,000 and 200,000 persons died in Buchenwald concentration camp.

FRENCH PRISONERS MADE STERILE BY NAZIS, SAYS DOCTOR

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—Many French war prisoners were left sterile by brutal and perhaps deliberately planned treatment in German concentration camps, a leading Paris specialist said today.

The new atrocity charge was added to a rapidly unfolding horror program which all evidence indicates was carefully calculated to exterminate some 10 million Europeans whom the Nazis regarded as enemies to their system.

The Paris physician, who asked that his name be withheld, in a report prepared for the Associated Press said that in 18 months' close study he had found the sterility rate high among released and escaped French prisoners.

This sterility was perhaps the result of malnutrition and suffering, but, he added, it may have been deliberately induced by the introduction of certain substances in the food given the prisoners.

ALL GERMANS TO BE TOLD OF PRISON SHAME

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, April 23—Every German in Hitler's reich will view pictures of inhumanities practiced upon prisoners at Buchenwald, Belsen, and other Nazi torture camps. In addition editorials from newspapers thruout the world showing the revulsion with which the Germans are viewed because of their treatment of prisoners will be "required reading" for all citizens of conquered Germany.

This was the plan being perfected tonight by the information services of Britain and the United States in coöperation with SHAEF.

The information services are assembling a pictorial layout of the scenes at Buchenwald and Belsen. These will be reproduced for display in every community in conquered Germany at points where inhabitants will be compelled to view them as they go to and from their homes. Translations of editorials giving the reaction of free nations to the barbarities which the German people countenanced and the determination that the German people must be held responsible for acts of their government are to be interspersed with the photographs.

DENY EXECUTING CONCENTRATION CAMP LEADER

WITH THE BRITISH 2D ARMY IN GERMANY, April 23 (AP)—Headquarters of the 2d army denied tonight reports of the execution of Josef Kramer, the SS [elite guard] commandant of the Belsen concentration camp where possibly more than 30,000 persons died in recent months.

A statement said:

"Reports that Camp Commandant Kramer, SS hauptsturmfuehrer of the Belsen concentration camp, has been summarily tried and shot are completely without foundation. This officer is at present in the hands of British military authorities and is being dealt with in accordance with the normal procedure for captured enemy soldiers."

SENATOR RAPS MEMBERS FOR WAR JUNKETS

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 23—Criticism of members of congress who are touring the battlefronts as guests of the British government was voiced in senate debate today on a joint resolution to establish a permanent war atrocities committee.

When Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] offered the resolution, Sen. Aiken [R., Vt.] asked how it is possible for so many members of congress to make such trips.

"This morning the press states that eight members of the house are visiting battlefields and concentration camps in Europe," he said. "Then we hear over the air that 17 editors, and no one knows how many members of both houses, are taking another trip. How do they get there? Do they go on their own account, or how?"

British Pay Expenses

Chandler said he had been informed that some had been invited by the British government, and perhaps by other governments, and Sen. Hill [D., Ala.] said it was his understanding that nearly any member of congress who desires may go overseas at the invitation of the British. He said it was his understanding that most of the house members now in Europe are there at the expense of the British.

"I should think the United States government should pay the expenses," Aiken said, "if it is not already doing so, of any members of the congress who are visiting the variou parts of the world."

Aiken also demanded to know what right the war department has to say who shall represent the senate on committees going abroad to see the effects of Nazi brutality in the prison camps. He was referring to the group of six senators and six representatives named Saturday to go to Europe.

"I have not the slightest objection to the makeup of the committee which has gone over there," Aiken said. "The question I raise is whether we should permit the war department to name such committees. Furthermore, I believe the expenses of such a trip should be paid out of our congressional appropriation and not by any foreign government or by another department of the government."

Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader, is a member of the group en route to Europe, and Sen. White [R., Me.], minority leader, explained how the selections were made.

White said it was necessary to get the committee en route quickly and that as minority leader he took the responsibility of submitting the names of the Republican members to make the trip. They are Senators Brooks [Ill.], Wherry [Neb.], and Saltonstall [Mass.]. The Democrats besides Barkley are Senators George [Ga.] and Thomas [Utah].

Imperative Request

"I do not know whether I have violated the proprieties or offended the sensibilities of any senator," White said. "But there was what seemed to me to be an imperative request from the highest military authority overseas that this committee be sent over there. If it was to be done it had to be done at the moment. There was no opportunity for reference of the matter to a committee.

Chandler's resolution for a permanent war atrocities committee, to be named by the President and to include members of both houses, private citizens and Purple Heart wearers, was laid over for further consideration and permission for the six senators to be absent was voted.

'SATISFACTORY' PACT REPORTED REACHED BY ARGENTINA-U. S.

San Francisco, Cal., April 23 (AP)—Avra Warren returned from an Argentine mission today with a report that satisfactory arrangements have been reached with the Argentine government for coöperation in naval, aeronautical, and economic fields.

Warren, director of the office of American republic affairs of the state department, brought with him the report that is expected to form the basis for Argentina's eventual incorporation in the allied nations.

The agreements were understood to comprise an understanding on naval coöperation, a similar accord on collaboration in military aviation, and a general agreement to insure that Argentina shall not become a refuge for fugitive German funds.

EX-PRESIDENT OF ARGENTINA AND LEADERS SEIZED

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 23 (AP)—Striking simultaneously in various cities, federal police arrested scores of persons over the weekend in a move to choke off growing opposition and prevent demonstrations which might threaten the present regime.

Among those arrested were Gen. Arturo Rawson, who held the Argentine presidency briefly in 1943, several former cabinet ministers and army officers, and three newspaper editors.

A hastily imposed censorship prevented foregin correspondents from reporting the news until tonight. The government notified the correspondents yesterday that they would not be allowed to report any arrests or demonstrations in connection with the expected fall of Berlin.

Seventy Persons Seized

The retired Gen. Rawson, who was president for two days after the 1943 revolutionary coup, was arrested by detectives who spent two hours searching his apartment.

Reports said all of the arrests were ordered to prevent opposition forces from using the fall of Berlin as an excuse for demonstrations against the Farrell regime. It was reported that 70 persons had been taken into custody. All were considered friendly to groups opposed to the government.

Navy Minister Held

Another former president, Gen. Pedro Ramirez, voluntarily appeared at police headquarters, and after questioning was permitted to leave.

Those detained included Adm. Benito Bueyro, former navy minister in the Ramirez administration; Gen. Benjamin Menedez, a former leader of national elements in the army; Gen. Juan Tonazzi, former minister of war in the Justo administration; Julio Noble, an editorial writer in Nacion; Leandro Saporiti, director of the Argentine News agency, and Jose Arrieta, correspondent for International News service.

OKINAWA JAPS HOLD OFF YANKS FOR FIFTH DAY

Recapture Town; 20 Planes Shot Down

GUAM, April 24 [Tuesday]—(AP)—American infantrymen still were deadlocked in the battle for southern Okinawa yesterday. Adm. Nimitz' bulletin today said no information was available on progress in the fifth day of the all-out push.

Pacific fleet carrier planes, meantime, destroyed 20 Japanese planes at Miyako Island in the southern Ryukyus Sunday. Fifteen were wiped out on the ground and five in combat. Four other enemy planes were shot down at Ishigaki Island nearby.

Nimitz' only reference to the southern Okinawa fighting was that naval guns and carrier aircraft "continued to support troops of the 24th army corps attacking the enemy's fortified line."

Japs Retake Town

Field reports said the Yanks were fighting to retake Kakazu town after losing it to infiltrating Japanese in battling so close and fierce that sections of the front line sometimes were scrambled.

The 27th division was forced to withdraw from Kakazu town by a Japanese counter-attack after a heavy night infiltration.

Associated Press Correspondent Jim Lindsley reported that Japanese troops, striking from a cave concealment behind the 165th regiment lines near the west coast, had to be bombed by an air strike behind the American lines—a unique air support operation.

In the 7th division sector on the east flank a 155 mm. Japanese howitzer, hauled up for point blank pounding of hill positions, was stalling the American advance. About one-third of the hill had been blown off.

Flames Pierce Hill

Japanese machine gunners were killed at scores of positions, but reenforcements replaced them in seemingly endless parade from tunnels and caves. The extensive nature of these enemy cave defenses was demonstrated in one sector where flame throwers, focussed on holes on one side of a ridge, shot flames thru the hill and out the other side.

Destruction of 33 Japanese planes was reported in Nimitz' bulletins today. This included the 24 wiped out at Miyako and Ishigaki in the southern Ryukyus, three wrecked on the ground at Kume Island west of Okinawa, one shot down north of Okinawa by a marine plane, and five destroyed by British carrier planes in the southern Ryukyus.

NAVY OWNERSHIP OF FAMOUS IWO PICTURE SOUGHT

AP Reveals Profits Go to Charity

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—Legislation authorizing the navy department to acquire exclusive ownership of the photograph showing the raising of the American flag on Mount Suribachi in the Pacific was introduced today by Rep. Cole [R., N. Y.].

The photo was taken on Iwo Island by Joseph Rosenthal, Associated Press photographer.

"This photograph has been accepted by the public as representative of all the forces at work in this war," Cole told a reporter. "It should become public property, so it can be dispensed to all with no one profiting from it."

Offered by AP

In New York, Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, said that on April 12 he wrote Navy Secretary Forrestal that the Associated Press had made the picture available at nominal cost to "all those who agreed to make proper use of it, but not for advertising." In addition, it was made available to the treasury without cost for use in advertising the seventh war loan.

Further, Mr. Cooper offered to the Navy Relief society the gross proceeds from the sales without deduction for the cost of reproduction.

Checks Are Sent

On April 18, having received a letter of acceptance from Forrestal, the first check covering the gross receipts to April 1 was forwarded with a letter saying checks would continue to be sent at the end of each month, covering gross receipts as long as there were any.

"I told Secretary Forrestal," said Mr. Cooper, "that the Associated Press would not use the facts of this gift to seek acclaim for itself. No announcement was made of it by the Associated Press then and no comment would be made now except that the legislation introduced in congress today by Congressman Cole might be taken to indicate that the Associated Press had profited from sales of the picture."

MARINES FROM CHICAGO REBUILD MINDANAO STRIP

BY WALTER SIMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MALABANG AIR STRIP, Mindanao, April 23—This is one of the few flat places on rugged Mindanao and one of the best air strips in the Philippines. Taken by guerrillas before the recent American landing, it is big enough to handle anything that flies.

Marine construction battalions are using it now. The work of development, interrupted by war, has been renewed and is going ahead rapidly. Bulldozers are chugging up and down the field and installations are going in.

The marine unit is commanded by Col. Lyle H. Meyer of Excelsior, Minn. The operations officer is Lt. Col. Keith Barr McCutcheon of East Liverpool, O., a cousin of the Tribune cartoonist, John T. McCutcheon. The personnel officer is Lt. Edward J. Gebbhardt of Sterling, Ill. Among other midwesterners here are Privates Robert Ratty, 2610 Rosemont av., Chicago, and Cornelius Trace of Seymour, Ind.

Moros Watch Them Work

As the marines work they are watched by fierce eyed, ragged Moros, who drove the Japanese out. Most of them are armed with old bolt action Enfield rifles. One is wearing a carved wooden hat surmounted by a glass flower. He is proud of this ornament.

Near the field is an engineer outfit in which Capt. Leonard Smith of Chicago is an officer. There is also an anti-aircraft battalion commanded by Lt. Col. William Fultz of Olympia, Wash., whose uncle, S. S. Sewell, is a Chicagoan. Many midwesterners are in this battalion.

BRITAIN, RUSSIA AND U. S. LOCKED ON POLISH ISSUE

Foreign Minister T. V. Soong indicating the conferees had put aside their study of the Polish question and considered final "Big Four" plans for the San Francisco conference.

Soong commented smilingly, "progress was made."

Stettinius and Soong were scheduled to fly to San Francisco tonight. Eden said he will leave tomorrow. He is expected to be accompanied by Molotov, who has avoided night flying.

Begin Parleys Early

The diplomatic negotiations began early in the morning when Stettinius and Eden met in the state department for a half hour. Molotov joined them for eighty minutes.

Shortly before noon the soviet envoy left the state department in company with Soviet Ambassador Gromyko. Walking briskly thru the corridors, he refused to say anything to waiting reporters.

Five minutes later Stettinius dashed out of his office and made his way to the White House. He was closeted with the President for 15 minutes and hurried out saying there was nothing he could say at this time.

Asked when he and Eden planned to meet again with Molotov, Stettinius said they were still consulting. He held a series of conferences with experts on Russian affairs and the Polish situation.

President Truman did not see Molotov until late in the day. At 5:33 p. m. [eastern war time] Molotov and Gromyko arrived at the White House for a conference with the President. Molotov's interpreter accompanied him. After the conference the White House announced that the American, British, and soviet foreign secretaries would continue their conversations on the Polish situation in San Francisco.

Silent on Moscow Report

The White House said that the continuance was necessary in view of the limited time Stettinius, Eden, and Molotov had in Washington prior to the opening of the San Francisco conference and also in order to permit Molotov to consult with his government.

Meanwhile, the state department declined to comment officially on a Moscow radio report which complained of what it called "foreign press" accounts that the big three had agreed at Yalta against inviting to San Francisco any Polish government unrecognized by Britain and the United States.

However, there never has been any official claim here that such an agreement was made directly by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at their Crimea conference. Diplomats however pointed to the fact that there was a Yalta agreement to amalgamate the Kremlin sponsored Warsaw provisional government with other Polish elements.

London Poles Conciliatory

LONDON, April 23 (AP)—The Polish government in exile emphasized today its willingness to conclude a treaty with soviet Russia and reported conversations were taking place—with its knowledge—between soviet officials and its representatives.

Provisional Group's Stand

MOSCOW, April 23 (AP)—The provisional Polish government at Warsaw does not plan to include Poles opposing its internal and external policies or its social reforms, President Boleslaw Bierut declared today at a press conference.

CONFUSION HITS SAN FRANCISCO IN 22 LANGUAGES

San Francisco, Cal., April 23—This city had its earthquake 39 years ago last week. It rocked again today under the impact of the main body of delegates, advisers, consultants, experts, technicians, press, motion picture, and radio men who will attend the world security conference of 46 nations which opens officially Wednesday.

In hotel lobbies, wildly gesticulating men and women clamored in an estimated 22 languages for rooms. There was the same babel of tongues in the Veterans Memorial building where credentials were being issued. A scene of greater confusion and disorganized effort is difficult to imagine.

3,000 Delegates Arrive

Approximately 1,500 arrivals today swelled the total of officially accredited representatives on the scene to nearly 3,000. Of these, only 800 are delegates. Every train crossing the Sierras and scores of planes poured new arrivals into a city already jammed by war conditions. Five thousand visitors from thruout the world are expected to be here when deliberations open in the war memorial opera house.

The sad fact is that San Francisco didn't want the parley, was astounded when it was selected as the site, and apparently took its time about preparations. Workmen are still sawing and hammering in the veterans' building where the main work of the conference will be conducted, putting together tables and erecting partitions for conference rooms. Others were leisurely connecting the thousands of telegraph and telephone cables over which millions of words will be carried to the far corners of the earth.

1,000 in a Room for 150

The more than 1,000 newspaper men and radio representatives have been assigned a workroom in the basement of the building which could not possibly accommodate more than 150 at the same time. A certain amount of bickering is anticipated.

2 SUAVE ENVOYS BAT FOR BRITAIN IN GLOBAL GAME

BY WILLIAM MOORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., April 23—The British have designated two of their top diplomats to head their delegation to the international security conference—dashing Foreign Secretary Eden and suave, reserved Ambassador Halifax.

From their respective headquarters in London and Washington, these two powerful diplomats have kept American lend lease flowing in large quantities to their country.

Eden has brought the directions of Prime Minister Churchill to many an international conference by airplane. Halifax gave impetus and his blessing to the Dumbarton Oaks conference in Washington, where the groundwork for the present international gathering was laid.

Since 1923, when he was elected to parliament, Eden has been working to protect Great Britain from attack.

An Envoy to Geneva

After becoming a foreign office official in 1931, he made many journeys to Geneva and elsewhere thruout the world for the league of nations and other international conferences. As lord privy seal, he began has acquaintanceship with Premier Stalin of Russia in 1935.

Eden had risen to secretary of state for foreign affairs in 1938 when he broke with the late Neville Chamberlain, then prime minister, and resigned. When Mr. Churchill came into the cabinet in the first year of the war, Eden resumed government service.

Halifax, at 64, the senior of the youthful looking Eden by 16 years, entered parliament in 1910. Since 1917 he has been a government official. He was viceroy of India for five years. Chosen ambassador to the United States in 1941, he had won such international recognition that the late President Roosevelt went out to the ambassador's ship to welcome him to this country.

A Persuasive Emissary

In Washington, Halifax has become known as a persuasive and powerful representative of his government.

The other delegates, less in the spotlight, are nevertheless credited with knowing how to get what Britain wants.

Robert Arthur James Gascoyne Cecil [the Viscount Cranborne], leader of the house of lords since 1942, has held several major posts in the Churchill government.

Clement Richard Attlee, a Labor party leader in parliament, has likewise held numerous posts in the Churchill cabinet. He is now deputy prime minister and lord president of the council.

Dingle Foot a Writer

Dingle Foot is a liberal member of parliament, widely known for his writings. He is a former president of the Oxford university Liberal club and of the Oxford union society.

Stately Miss Florence Horsbrugh, member of parliament, was a British delegate to the league of nation's assemblies in 1933, 1934, and 1935. A leader in social service work, she organized the war time evacuation of women and children from London and other danger areas.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, a labor member of parliament, is known as "the shelter queen" for her work in providing shelter for bombed Londoners.

William Mabane and George Tomlinson are both members of parliament. Mabane is an authority on social welfare. Tomlinson was the British government representative at the Philadelphia conference of international labor in 1944.

SOVIET-LUBLIN PACT ASSAILED AS 'FARCE' BY POLES IN CHICAGO

Announcement by Moscow of a 20 year friendship and post-war collaboration treaty with the soviet sponsored Polish provisional [Lublin] government yesterday was castigated as "farcical" and otherwise condemned by leaders of 600,000 Chicagoans of Polish descent.

The pact which Marshal Stalin is quoted in news dispatches as having praised as "a guarantee of the independence of a new democratic Poland," was termed "ridiculous and nothing but a farce" by Stanley E. Basinski, 4915 S. Ashland av., president of the Polish American Business Men's association.

"How can there be such an agreement when the Bolsheviks made it only with themselves?" Basinski asked.

Thaddeu V. Adesko, president of the Illinois district of the Polish American congress, and John J. Olejniczak, president of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America, also deplored the action of Russia, which they said violated the intent of the Yalta conference.

PHILLIPS NAMED SPECIAL AID TO STETTINIUS

Washington, D. C., April 23 [Special]—William Phillips, 66, career diplomat whose critical report of British Indian policy last year to President Roosevelt brought about an international diplomatic storm, today was appointed special assistant to the secretary of state.

Phillips will assist in handling departmental matters while many of the top officials of the state department are in San Francisco, it was announced.

COSTLY FOLLIES OF LEND-LEASE START AT HOME

WPA Tools Go to Arabs, Who Spurn Them

(This is the second article in a series on lend-lease abroad by a South Dakota newspaper man who entered the lend-lease administration in May, 1943, and served abroad until last autumn.)

BY RALPH M. HORTON
(Former Lend-Lease Official)

Lend-lease liquidated large quantities of leftover WPA supplies but this dubious benefit to American taxpayers was erased many times over by the costly methods under which supplies were purchased in this country, crated, shipped, and stored even before they left our shores for countries abroad.

During the weeks I was in Washington before going to North Africa, where I worked as a mission officer in the lend-lease organization, I learned that the mistakes of burocracy, like charity, begin at home.

Part of my duties while in Washington was examining shipping orders of supplies destined for abroad. There I discovered that if a person tried to use efficient business methods he was tied down by the maze of red tape which strangles initiative and consumes vital time when a nation is at war.

WPA Tools "Purchased"

The entry of this country into war had ended hundreds of WPA projects thruout the country but it had left all the shovels, picks, mattocks, and other tools scattered thru the 48 states. Tens of thousands of these tools were taken over by lend-lease, "purchased" at $1 per unit of a score or less. These tools were often boxed in small quantities of 50 pounds or less in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and other states and shipped to New York and Norfolk, the freight rates alone frequently being more than the value of the tools.

After being stored for weeks in ports of this country these tools were put aboard ships, using cargo space that was vital at that time, and sent to North Africa under lend-lease. There difficulties piled up, for the Arabs refused to use them and the last I heard of the WPA tools they were being sold in Algeria, Tunisia, and Morocco at around 10 cents apiece.

Shipping orders I examined showed what to me looked like a surprisingly large amount of horseshoe nails being sent lend-lease to Africa. Upon inquiry, I learned that the entire output of the Capewell Horse Shoe Nail company, which I was informed was the only company in the United States making horseshoe nails, had been commandeered by the government and the entire supply was being shipped over a period of several months to our French and Arabian friends.

Critical Shortage at Home

It was about this time that selective service boards were calling young farmers into military service in increasing numbers. Older men were returning from well earned retirement to operate the nation's farms and help feed the world. These older men were not as familiar with tractors and farm machinery as had been their sons and grandsons and when they went to blacksmith shops to have their farm horses shod they found a critical shortage of horseshoe nails.

Another costly lend-lease business venture in the early stages of our efforts to outfit all our allies was the purchase of thousands of pairs of low cost shoes from retailers thruout the country. These were shoes that had been on the retailers' shelves for some time, many of them no longer saleable and the kind of merchandise the retailers were glad to dispose of even at the low price the government offered.

These shoes were shipped to New York in paper cartons, again in small lots at high freight rates. In New York the General Motors Overseas corporation was given the contract for boxing the shoes for shipment abroad. The cost of this boxing was greater than the original cost of the shoes and by the time the footwear reached the Arabs of North Africa it could no longer be classed as cheap merchandise.

Bars of Steel Shipped Off

Thousands of bars of steel in local blacksmith shops and small metal firms were frozen after our entry into war. Customers in this country could not purchase these bars without WPB priority, but lend-lease picked up this material and shipped it to the eastern seaboard, again in small lots of a few hundred pounds each with high local freight costs, where it was placed aboard ships and sent to Africa.

Thousands of cases of evaporated milk were purchased for shipment abroad. These supplies carried a high priority shipping rate and were intended for children who were in serious need of food of this kind. Large quantities of this milk were wasted in warehouses because lend-lease officials had never learned that such milk must be turned from time to time to keep it from spoiling.

I examined shipping orders for thousands of boxes of shotgun shells—shells that I was told were needed to kill birds that were eating the olive crops of North Africa. These birds, lend-lease officials informed me, were about the size of sparrows but some of the shells contained shot of a size heavy enough to kill the gazelles and wild ducks of the Atlas mountains. I protested the size of this order because American hunters were then going fruitlessly from store to store seeking ammunition. I went abroad before I learned the final disposition of the order. In Africa I saw no birds eating the olives, but I did see many British and French officers in the fields and driving to the Atlas mountain hunting grounds with shotguns in their hands.

[In his next article Mr. Horton will answer the question: Does lend-lease win friends for America?]

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

April 23, 1945.

A DAY never passes that the war isn't in the minds of the men and women on the Wheaton farm. If they had a service flag, it would contain five stars for the former farm workers and sons of farm employes who have entered service.

These men in uniform include the farm's ex-flockmaster, now a gunner's mate on an aircraft carrier in the Pacific; the son of a farm worker who is an officer in the camouflage division of the army engineers corps; a member of the merchant marine; an air corps bombardier, and an infantryman now in the front lines in Europe.

When these boys get back home they'll have a lot of stories to tell their families, and when the first discharged veteran of World War II. went on the pay roll a few days ago the farm people had a sample of the sort of war stories their own sons will be telling.

Former Movie Rider

The new employe is Bill Dotson, formerly a technical sergeant in the 1st armored division. Before entering the army in 1938, Bill was a trick rider in Hollywood movies and toured the country as a rodeo bronco buster. He has a long record of service in the European theater, and participated in the North African invasion. He was injured in a tank accident in North Africa in December, 1942, and was treated in hospitals in England and this country for 13 months before his honorable discharge last July.

Long Walk Is Wasted

A Texan, Bill likes good horses and good cattle, so it wasn't surprising that we found him chuckling over the antics of the Aberdeen-Angus steers the other evening at feeding time. The black animals had gathered around their feed bunks near the center of the farm, where the herdsmen feed them every night.

A little before chow time the steers glanced down the lane and saw the herdsmen mending a fence, so they immediately rushed almost half a mile to meet the men, probably thinking that they were to be fed in a new location. But as soon as the herdsmen patched the fence, they drove back to the regular feeding place, with the result that the disappointed steers had to make the return trip to the feed bunks. After this exercising jaunt the beef animals had an excellent appetite for the corn silage, hay, and ground grain which the men gave them.

PROGRESSIVE thinning is recommended for the removal of excess seedlings in the head lettuce and loosehead leaf lettuce rows. This process involves going over the rows several times during the growing season, each time pulling out smaller seedlings and leaving healthier plants in place.

For example, most varieties of head lettuce should stand at least 12 inches apart after the final thinning, but during the first thinning process individual plants may be left every two inches in the row. Later, additional seedlings should be removed, perhaps leaving a plant to each six inches, then a third thinning would remove all but one plant to each 12 inches.

A similar series of thinnings is recommended for loosehead leaf lettuce, such as Grand Rapids and Oak Leaf varieties. This type may stand closer than head lettuce, with about four to six inches separating the plants after the final thinning.

ALDERMEN BACK WAR BOND 'FROM DAD TO G. I. JOE'

In a resolution passed yesterday by a unanimous vote, the city council gave enthusiastic support to a suggestion presented recently in a Tribune editorial that fathers of soldiers and sailors might wish to show their appreciation of their sons' service by purchasing war bonds in the fighting men's names.

The resolution, which was presented by five aldermen, all of whom have sons in service, was passed after introductory speeches by many aldermen who praised the idea for its patriotic thought and its stimulus to the morale of fighting men at home and abroad.

All Plan to Follow Idea

After its passage, by spontaneous agreement, each alderman with a son in service, as well as many others, announced that he would purchase a bond under the provisions of the idea. The action was led by the five men presenting the resolution. They are Aldermen Brody [39th], Porten [34th], Kovarik [15th], Cohen [4th], and Quinn [50th].

Ald. Brody, one of the men who drafted the resolution, was able to show a $500 bond he had already purchased in the name of his son, Pvt. Lewis F. Brody, 21, now serving with an infantry division in Germany.

Mayor Kelly also announced that he would immediately purchase a $500 bond for his son, Joseph Kelly, 19, a navy seaman now stationed at a radar school near New York.

"Least Fathers Can Do"

"This gesture," Mayor Kelly said, "is the least we fathers can do to show our pride in the service our boys are giving their country. The idea is an extremely timely and commendable one."

Other organizations also have shown enthusiastic response to the editorial, which was entitled "From Dad to G. I. Joe." The Air Corps Fathers' Club of Chicago announced that every member of the organization would be called by telephone and informed of the suggestion.

R. C. Jennings, 126 Broadway, Wilmette, vice president of the group, said that indications were that each member would have a bond purchased in his son's name within a few days. Jennings already has purchased a bond for his son, Lt. [j. g.] William E. Jennings, 24, a navy pilot who recently left for overseas service.

Another club officer, George F. Meister, 2911 N. Kolmar av., treasurer, purchased a bond in the name of his son, Edwin, 21, a navy radioman stationed in Key West, Fla.

One flustered arresting officer called her "Me Lady," another addressed the new magistrate as "Lady Worship," and the third policeman called her "Sir" twice.

NAVY AT GUAM MAY PUBLISH A NEWSPAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 23—The navy disclosed today that two newspaper executives are on Guam making a survey of the "technical feasibility" of the navy's establishing its own newspaper there. The executives are Joseph Ridder, president of the St. Paul [Minn.] Pioneer Press and Dispatch, and Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of the Portland [Ore.] Oregonian.

A navy spokesman said Ridder and Hoyt were asked to make the preliminary survey after Charles S. Thomas, special assistant to Navy Secretary Forrestal, recommended early this month that the navy print a newspaper on Guam. Thomas, who recently returned to Washington from a morale inspection trip in the South Pacific, said in his recommendation that navy personnel dislike condensed news reports and that "home town" newspapers from the United States are too slow in reaching South Pacific bases.

Medal of Honor Awarded Yank Who Shot Way Out

NUERNBERG, Germany, April 23 (AP)—Tech. Sgt. Russell Dunham, Wood River, Ill., who shot his way out of German imprisonment with a pistol he had concealed, was awarded the congressional medal of honor yesterday by Lt. Gen. Patch, commander of the 7th army. A member of the 3d division, Sgt. Dunham captured three enemy machine guns, a mortar and two prisoners, killed nine Germans, and wounded two in action near Colmar last December.

J. K. Anderson, 7015 Dorchester av., told police his automobile was stolen yesterday from in front of his home.

SENATE REJECTS CURB ON USE OF TEEN-AGE YANKS

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—A move to require 12 months military training before combat for draftees under the age of 20 was snowed under, 66 to 9 today, in the senate.

A promise by Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, to stop sending youths of less than 19 overseas, as soon as war conditions permit, helped build up the topheavy vote against this proposal by Sen. O'Daniel [D., Tex.].

Defeat of the O'Daniel proposal strengthened administration hopes of securing a one year extension of the selective service act without any congressional mandate as to how long 'teen age draftees should be trained.

Come on, you pace-makers!

Miss Eleonora Sears, one of America's great sportswomen, is a famous pedestrian. In 1925, she walked from Providence to her home on Beacon Street, Boston, 47 miles, in 9 hours and 40 minutes. Two male pace-makers were nowhere in sight when she finished. In 1910, Miss Sears also walked the 110 miles from Burlingame, California, to Del Monte in 28 hours and 15 minutes.

Miss Sears enjoyed being a pedestrian. A lot of motor car owners are becoming pedestrians and they're not enjoying it. Their cars are wearing out! If you don't want to join them, give your car the care it needs to keep it running right, running longer, and running farther on every gallon of gasoline. Right now is the time for your

Escapes Germans

Lt. Robert Davis, who escaped from a German prison camp, and his wife, Lola, of Urbana, in Chicago yesterday. [TRIBUNE Photo]

When Lt. Robert Davis of Oak Park and the 400 men under his command were forced to surrender last Dec. 16 to Nazi Tiger tanks and superior forces near Schollenberg, Germany, they didn't know what was in store for them. But it didn't take long to find out, he said yesterday on his return home.

First item on the agenda was a forced march of 126 miles in 11 days. Each Yank prisoner was given a single loaf of bread, all that was given them for the entire march. The march ended at a railroad spur, and the prisoners were herded into box cars.

Then followed a tedious and tortuous ride, during which their train was strafed and bombed by American flyers, unaware of the cars' contents, to a prison camp in northern Poland. Late one afternoon Lt. Davis, son of Norman H. Davis, 328 S. Euclid av., Oak Park, risked death by slipping away from his guards. Somehow he made his way to Russian lines—and eventually to American authorities, and back to the United States.

EX-LUXURY LINER TAKES WOUNDED FROM WARSHIPS

ABOARD AN AMERICAN TRANSPORT OFF OKINAWA [Delayed]—(AP)—This converted troop vessel, once a luxury liner, is getting many of the casualties off American ships that have been hit by Japanese suicide planes. It is not a regular hospital ship, said Lt. Comdr. James C. Carey of Joliet, Ill.

Many of the casualties brought aboard are burn cases, Dr. Carey said.

"We have one man with 80 per cent of his body surface burned. He has been improving slowly for a week, and there is a good chance that he may pull thru. Three things are primarily responsible for our success — whole blood, plasma and penicillin."

SEAN O'KELLY NOMINATED FOR IRISH PRESIDENT

DUBLIN, Eire, April 23 [Reuters]—Sean O'Kelly, 65, tonight was unanimously selected as candidate for the Eire presidency by the Fianna Fail, the government party.

His early resignation from the government is expected, followed by resignation from the dail [lower house of parliament], if elected to the presidency, about which there is little doubt. O'Kelly, one of Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's closest friends, is next after De Valera the most popular figure in Irish public life.

He will succeed Dr. Douglas Hyde, Celtic scholar, poet, historian and dramatist, who retires because of old age and failing health on June 26. The term of office is seven years, the salary $36,000 a year plus a similar amount for entertainment.

WHO ARE AGGRESSORS?

The most extraordinary aspect of the San Francisco security conference convening tomorrow is that the representatives of 46 nations have been called into session to approve a scheme to suppress future aggressions when no definition has been given them as to what aggression is and who is to be determined an aggressor. With a limitation so ludicrous upon their deliberations, they might just as well switch off the lights in the conference hall and work in complete darkness.

It cannot be doubted that this striking omission in the Dumbarton Oaks draft plan is deliberate. Look about and note who are Hitler's heirs and you will be able quickly to identify the nations which do not wish to be held accountable as aggressors. See which of them are offering new tyrannies for old. Observe those which are steadily pursuing the path of imperialism before even a peace is signed.

No sensible person can reach any other conclusion than that the San Francisco meeting has no concern with establishing a peace of justice, but that its only purpose is to secure permanently the thralldom of millions of victims to nations which are pursuing aggressions in the wake of conquering armies. San Francisco is intended to place the seal of approval on the status quo which will prevail when the guns cease booming. It is not designed to bring into being conditions of respect and responsibility among free countries equal in sovereignty and dignity if not in size and power. San Francisco proposes a double moral standard governed by the axiom that might is right and that, for smaller states, the only alternative to suicide is perpetual fear.

How can an aggressor be determined? Fortunately, a definition, complete, except as to one qualification, is already at hand. This definition was reached by agreement of eight states almost 12 years ago. As part of a recognized treaty, it has standing in international law. An aggressor is to be considered as the state which is the first to commit any of the following acts:

1. Declare war against another state.
2. Invade another state, even without a declaration of war.
3. Attack, even without a declaration, the territory, naval vessels, or aircraft of another state with land, sea, or air forces.
4. Exercise a naval blockade of the coasts or ports of another state.
5. To give aid to armed bands formed on the territory of one state and sent into the territory of another state, or refuse to deprive such bands of aid and protection.

This admirable definition, lacking, as previously said, in only one safeguard against any contingency, was sponsored by Russia and signed in Moscow July 3, 1933, as part of a convention adopted by the soviet union, Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Romania, Turkey, Persia, and Afghanistan.

It might be adopted by the San Francisco conference to supply the badly needed deficiency of a definition of aggressors, but to it should be added a sixth clause, suggested last week by ex-President Hoover in his address to the Foreign Policy association in Philadelphia. Mr. Hoover then said, "Aggression in this world is not confined to the old fashioned threats or to military action or even economic pressures. . . . Therefore the San Francisco charter should agree upon a definition of aggression to include direct or indirect subsidized governmental propaganda in other nations."

The suggested sixth clause based upon this premise could be broadened as follows: "Infiltration of another state by means of propaganda subsidized directly or indirectly, or by means of agents in the pay of or acting in the interests of a foreign state." The six clause definition of an aggressor is now all-inclusive.

Its effectiveness can be judged by applying a few simple tests. Has the territory of Poland, Estonia, and Latvia—signatories to the Moscow convention of 1933—been invaded and occupied by a foreign state? Has subsidized propaganda been employed to maintain the interests of the aggressor state? Are the governments of the occupied states composed of agents in the pay of or acting in the interests of the aggressor nation?

Political and propaganda infiltration of Bulgaria, Lithuania, Romania, and Yugoslavia might be studied as additional tests. In the light of its denunciation of its neutrality treaty with its ally, Turkey, is Russia to be considered as evidencing a hostile intention toward Turkey? What is to be said of the British military intervention in Greece? Does the British refusal to accept Count Sforza as a member of the Italian government evidence an intention to accept only Italian agents of Britain as the government of that country? In view of the widespread desire on the part of India for independence, is the British military occupation to be judged an act of aggression?

When the San Francisco conferees bring themselves to consider such questions—and only when they do—will they approach reality. Everything else is merely a play of shadows, devoid alike of relevancy or meaning to the question of erecting a peaceable world. First things come first, and an organization to suppress aggressors is never going to have any effectiveness as long as no one knows who an aggressor is.

SECOND CLASS POSTAGE

Various state press associations are organizing opposition to a proposal to increase second class postal rates. The Virginia Press association has taken a lead in the movement.

It has frequently been contended that the second class rates amount to a subsidy to newspapers. THE TRIBUNE has said frequently in the past that if the second class rate is a subsidy, we don't want it. No newspaper can expect to retain its full freedom of expression if it is indebted to government for anything.

It has never been established, however, that the second class is a subsidy because there has never been an acceptable accounting. The most useful service that the various press associations opposing the proposed postal increase could perform would be to prevail upon congress to order a just accounting of the cost of handling such mail.

The accounting rules should take into consideration the fact that the service accorded is also second class. Second class mail is denied many of the privileges and priorities given letter mail. It would also be unfair to figure cost on the basis of weight handled. Railroads don't charge the same freight for such bulky commodities as coal or gravel as they do for more expensive goods.

If a fair accounting shows that second class mail is actually receiving a subsidy, the rate should be increased. The very fact that many publications use other means of distribution for part of their circulation would indicate that in some instances the second class rates are already too high, on a competitive basis.

KEYNES VS. KEYNES

As late as the first of the year, it was generally believed by informed observers that the Bretton Woods international banking proposals had not the slightest chance of being approved in congress. Leading financial experts, such as Benjamin Anderson of the University of California, with a quarter of a century experience in international finance, Melchior Palyi of Chicago, a high authority on European monetary affairs, John Williams, the expert of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and Winthrop Aldrich, head of the biggest bank in the country, had examined the proposals and found them to be unworkable or contrary to the best interests of the country, or both. The American Bankers association had denounced the plans in a report approved at its annual convention. The schemes conceived by John Maynard Keynes, a British exponent of inflation, and promoted here by followers of Keynes, seemed to have no support of consequence inside or outside the government.

In January there began a series of remarkable developments. First, the American Bankers association, acting thru committees between conventions turned a complete somersault. The A. B. A. issued a statement which indorsed the institution provided for making loans for reconstruction and development. That was half of Bretton Woods. As to the other half, it urged that the proposed institution for stabilizing currency be abandoned, but not its functions. These were to be turned over to the reconstruction and development bank. Thus the only material difference between the Keynesians and the A. B. A. was that one wanted two institutions and the other wanted only one.

When the advocates of Bretton Woods discovered that the A. B. A. was now on their side, they quickly adopted the banker group as their official opposition. As former antagonists, the bankers could do more good than if they had embraced the Keynes schemes from the first. Those who might make a real fight in opposition would be lulled into inactivity in the belief that the bankers were doing the fighting. As a result a victory would be won by default.

Any one who knows anything is aware that pro and con are not the same and that the real critics of a measure don't agree in advance to vote for the measure. W. Randolph Burgess, an eastern banker and president of the A. B. A. appearing as the association's chief witness before the house banking and currency committee, was asked how he would vote on the Bretton Woods plans if he had the choice between approving them without change or rejecting them in their entirety. He said that he would vote "aye."

What has been going on before the house committee is a sham battle. Last week it appeared that was all the opposition Chairman Spence would permit the committee to hear. He had already called back Dr. Harry White as a rebuttal witness. Anderson, Palyi, Williams, and Aldrich, who had made the principal criticisms of the plans, are not to be called at all.

As there wasn't any difference between the proponents of the Keynes schemes and their pet opponents, talk of a compromise between the two makes no sense. Nevertheless, the committee on economic development recently submitted a plan, described as a compromise, which called for two institutions, as Mr. Morgenthau desires, instead of one as approved by the A. B. A., but would give the institution the bankers like some of the functions the Keynes followers wanted assigned to the other one. This proposal received high praise last week in a speech by Daniel Bell, the undersecretary of the treasury. Banker witnesses, too, had some good things to say about the CED recommendation. Assistant Secretary of State Will Clayton was one of the group responsible for the CED "compromise." It was issued a few days after Clayton had testified for Bretton Woods as drafted.

If the president of the American Bankers association is content to be the fall guy for Keynes and his followers, that is his privilege. That does not relieve congress of the duty of ascertaining what pitfalls there are in Bretton Woods before committing this country. The committee on banking is not ready to make its recommendations because it has heard only one side. The subject needs to be opened up completely and thoroly. If Representative Spence prevents his committee from doing the job, it will have to be done elsewhere.

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

HE FORETOLD HITLER

Shakespeare's theoretical birthday, actually his death day, seems to have been celebrated this time with more emphasis than usual, perhaps because his "Macbeth" contains so many lines that can be quoted to illustrate Hitler's past and present. A revival of this drama should be in order as soon as a satisfactory cast can be salvaged from the war and Hollywood. "Macbeth" has always been excellent for the box-office, especially on Saturday nights when the gallery gods were eager for a melodramatic week-end. As a post-war commentary on the fate of murderous dictators, it ought to run like "Tobacco Road."

* * *

The birthday reminded us of the flower-placing ceremonies at the Shakespeare statue in Lincoln park, founded by the late James O'Donnell Bennett when he was drama critic of the Record-Herald. On one of these occasions, perhaps in 1910, Shakespeare's April and Chicago's version were in shocking disagreement. There had been a return of January weather with snow the night before, and Lincoln park was like Siberia. The only hint of spring in sight was Violet Heming, then beginning her stage career, present as a direct descendant of John Heminge, Shakespeare's colleague and first editor.

* * *

The Shakespeare statue is a credit to the park district school of sculpture. Of course it is not in the modern fashion, and forward thinkers among the arts will not look at it twice, because its feet and legs are of normal proportions, without a suggestion of elephantiasis. The sculptor was William Ordway Partridge, who died in 1930, aged 69. Among his other works are bronzes of Alexander Hamilton and Thomas Jefferson at Columbia university, and an equestrian Gen. Grant in Brooklyn.

THE BRIGHT INVADER

Spring, having conquered the neighboring southland,
Assembles her armies and gaily comes forth,
Athrill with new life, and resurgent, and glowing
With assurance of triumph, for assault on the north.
Brightly her legions march, crimson and yellow,
White, blue, and purple, ranks ever unthinned,
Engulfing green slopes and wide pastures, advancing
And dancing along in the sun and the wind.

With ease she has taken the hedgerow and thicket;
She flaunts her glad banners on peachtree and plum.
Over marshland and woodland and far-reaching valleys
Her cohorts gay-liveried, conquering, come.
O, bright is the beauty she offers our vision,
And, laden with flower scents, sweet is her breath,
And it's hope, and not fear, that she brings with invasion,
And it's life that arrives in her wake, and not death.

Afar o'er the land she has sent out her heralds
To tell of her coming. From shrub and green bough,
Sing robin, and redbird, and thrasher, entreating,
Surrender to Spring, O, capitulate now!
Yes, let us surrender without reservation—
Surrender completely, and think it no sin.
Let us open our hearts to the charming invader
And, giving our love to her, welcome her in!

Choppy's Sign of Spring

In this, the beautiful springtide, I'm sorry to say that Choppy has a sprig code id hid head.

So, it is wheeze, clear his throat, cough, and sneeze loudly and often. This is repeated until either I or Choppy, usually Choppy, cannot bear it. Then he comes over to me, and paws at my hand, which means in dog language: "Do something, can't you see I'm dying."

The funny part is that Choppy knows he will not like what he wants me to do, but he wants it anyway. I go to the kitchen to his medicine chest, and get out his spoon and cough sirup. He hears me, and hides. I pour out a half spoonful, and there I am, running around the flat with a half teaspoonful of sirup in one hand, but not Choppy in the other. I corral him in a corner, open his jaws, and give him his medicine. Such a face, but it always cures his cold.

Once we gave him a cough drop, but he did not use it properly. He chomped it down, as if it were candy.

Maybe Choppy's right, and we are wrong, and that is the proper way to use a cough drop.

And desks are golden where the sunbeams sprawl!

What unbenign accomplice prompts the birds

How can the teacher hope to pit her words
Against the thrushes practicing their trills?

How can the evolution of their books

What can their chapters intimate that brooks
Explain more fully to the willow trees?

What can the teacher read in restless eyes

A. L. writes: "Can the property of a man in service be sold for taxes during his absence?"

Court permission to sell real or personal property of a man in service is necessary to enforce collection of past due taxes or assessments whether general or special. The court may postpone the sale for not more than six months after termination of military service. When by law the property may be sold for taxes, the service man will have the right to redeem the property within six months after termination of his military service. Payment of income taxes may be deferred for not longer than six months after the end of military service without interest or penalty when the service man is unable to pay by reason of his military service.

R. L. writes: "When a medal is awarded posthumously to the next of kin of a man killed in action, may this medal or the ribbon in lieu thereof be worn by the recipient?"

Wearing of a decoration by the next of kin is not authorized. All medals and decorations are a part of the uniform of the services of the United States. SKYLINE NAUSEA

WITH the advent of the airplane, airsickness came into being. As time went by and commercial aviation grew, it took its place alongside the unpleasant disorders arising from traveling by sea, train, and automobile. In the strict sense, motion sickness is not a disease but a combination of symptoms.

The causes of airsickness are various and the responsible factors are not necessarily the same in each case. The principal element is the failure of some parts of the body to adapt themselves to speedy motion. The eyes, ears, and nervous system seem to suffer most and manifest their displeasure by making the passenger squeamish. The organs which ordinarily help us keep our equilibrium are powerless in the face of rapid acceleration. The pilot, and those who orient themselves by watching a certain point on the ground, realize what is happening and unconsciously attempt to adjust themselves to the sudden changes in movement.

The condition may appear only when flying is bumpy. The pitch and roll of the plane are not as important as the sudden drop or rise that occurs when air pockets are encountered. This may amount to anything from 100 to 1,000 feet in a few seconds. Only a few occupants will be uncomfortable if exposure is brief but if it is prolonged, more are likely to be afflicted. The pilot realizes this and seeks levels where a smooth route can be found.

Other causes are chiefly psychic in nature. Fear of falling from high places, odors, poor ventilation, or the sight of others who are in distress also may bring on a characteristic bout. Airsickness develops in these individuals regardless of flying conditions.

The first sensation is almost always nausea which gradually becomes worse and leads to vomiting. The victim "feels sick all over" and breaks out in a cold sweat. From this point he becomes weak and faint. How severely he will react depends upon the emotional state. Several hours may be required for an attack to reach the vomiting stage. With flying "acrobatics," however, the cycle may take only a few seconds.

Considering the number of air passengers, only a small percentage are bothered. Bad weather is shunned wherever possible. Persons known to be unusually sensitive by reason of previous episodes of train or carsickness will undoubtedly be affected by aerial trips. Those who "just know they are going to be sick" also can be included in this group.

Any gastric disturbance prior to the takeoff may result in symptoms. An empty stomach may be as susceptible as an overloaded one, and experience has shown that a light bland meal an hour or two before a flight is generally well tolerated.

There is no specific remedy. Sedatives, hypnotics, belladonna, and strychnine have been recommended but are not uniformly successful. According to Col. H. C. Armstrong, the most practical method of prevention, when rough air cannot be avoided, is to fix the gaze on definite objects on the ground below.

Wanted: Boy with Dog

A week or so ago this department chronicled the dire tragedy that befell Mr. and Mrs. Middleton at the Museum of Science and Industry on the night of April 9. This happy wax couple for years have stood at the door to their honeymoon cottage, an authentic 1886 number. They presumably have just left the church. The stiff bridegroom has held a stiff nosegay. The stiff bride has stood not too eagerly, but very coyly. At their feet a little black dog has squatted, looking up with animated curiosity.

What happened that night no one at the museum knew, but frightened officials found the results the next morning: Mrs. Middleton lay stretched on the floor, three fingers torn from her left hand, her wedding ring lying in the debris. Mr. Middleton reeled against the screen door. Only the small dog, anchored to the floor, had neither moved nor been moved. And the sole clew was a set of tracks, thought to be cat tracks, imbedded in the deep pile of the gray rug in the exhibition room.

Since publication of this outrage the amateur sleuths of the continent have been seeking its solution. One thinks he has it. This is Prof. J. F. Christ, associate professor of law in the school of business at the University of Chicago and an authority on the works of Sherlock Holmes. Starting with the tracks, which remain 10 days after the events which posed the mystery, he has worked tirelessly toward a solution which it is our great pleasure to pass on today.

A few facts were self-evident: The marks or tracks were impressions made by some object smeared with tar or grease. While some seemed to be animal tracks, all made within a radius of 6 feet of the demonstrator's desk, others resembled the heelprint of a dirty shoe. The suggestions of their line of entrance were clear, but that of departure was faint. Getting into the area was no problem, as the door can be opened from the outside without a key. Nor would the prowler [or lost sight-seer] have been easily detected, for the museum is a labyrinth of passages. The demonstrator left at 4, but the rear service door which [note this well!] opens on a pavement [which on that Monday was dirty and sticky from a recent rain] is not closed until 4:45.

So [deduces Prof. Christ] a small boy and his dog either became lost and went out the back door and came in again, or else they entered that way between 4 and 4:45 p. m. The boy's shoes and the dog's paws were badly soiled from the sticky grime of the pavement. The boy, fearing the dog would get lost, picked him up and carried him. They wandered until they reached the happy Middleton abode, where the small boy spotted the small wax dog on the floor.

He wanted to take a good look at the dog, and fearing his own dog might cause complications, tethered him to the desk [thus the circle of tracks]. He himself raced on tiptoe to the exhibit where, after finding the wax dog anchored to the floor, he inadvertently bumped into Mrs. M. The lady had recently been to the museum hospital and may not have been anchored firmly [or, says the professor, she may have been unstable, anyway, in that setting]. Rudely jostled, she toppled over, snapping off her fingers and falling against her lord and master and thrusting him off balance so that he fell against the door. The boy, startled by the clatter, raced away on tiptoe, grabbed his dog, and scampered out.

"This boy," Prof. Christ says tersely, "should be identifiable by: [1] ownership of a small dog, [2] greasy stains on his garments from holding dirty dog, [3] the fact that he reached home just in time for dinner in a highly agitated state, [4] the fact that he is eager to visit the museum [according to a proverb denied by psychiatrists] to revisit the scene of crime.

"As Sherlock Holmes has indicated, it is my business to solve problems. It is the business of the police to catch criminals. But this thing should not go unavenged. And, as Mr. Holmes said in another case, why did you wait so long before you called on me?"

SUBMITTED TO SAN FRANCISCO

Skokie, Ill., April 19—The eve of the San Francisco meeting seems a fitting moment to enlighten the subtle, grasping foreign delegates as to what the American people want out of this war in which we are so involved. "No more wars" is heard on air waves and read daily, but not one direct attempt has been actuated nor has one been suggested.

Here are a few prerequisites for peace: Order imperialisms to free their shackled millions and cease exploiting them. These helpless people have shown they don't care who wins as they'll still be slaves anyway when the war ends.

Free the press of all nations and inform the masses of what is going on—before it happens! Demand that colonial wages be raised and cartels be suppressed. Monopoly of commerce or industry maintains only a small portion of imperial subject; the rest are left out of work, hungry, and with no independent act or thought—the handiwork and objective of crown leaders for centuries.

America, with 130 million people, is doing all the fighting in the Pacific, 75 per cent of it on the western front, supplying over 35 billion dollars of armament, food, and supplies to a population of more than 1½ billion. Is there not something wrong here? No more secret treaties, alliances, or spheres of influence—the direct causes of centuries-old trade wars. Insist on foreign nations raising their standards and not lowering those of a proven democracy—the United States of America.

STERLING DAWSON

SACRIFICE

Chicago, April 18—Call this a protest or anything else you like, but here it is. I've just spent a little less than three years, and not all of it in the states, in the army air force as a flying officer and, believe me, it burns me plenty to read the letter of "Just One American" griping because he can't get meat. Did our patriotic pal of many complaints ever get shot at fighting so he could be "Just One American?" I doubt it. I'd advise reading the casualty notices if he's still so hungry. Maybe that will satisfy his desire for rationed items. Buddy, there are a lot of things harder to be without than meat. Ever try losing your left leg?

DISGUSTED VET

ASSETS TO GERMANY

Chicago, April 17—It will, no doubt be very gratifying to some of those boys of our army who had their health and future ruined in a German prison camp to come home and be mustered out of the army on a measly $300 and then see the German prisoners in this country being well fed and built up and returned to their country in perfect health to again take up their scheming to ruin the world for another generation. R. S.

THEY'LL TRADE

Chicago, April 19—I agree with Staff Sgt. H. L.'s suggestion of letting men who have been deferred all along be drafted to supervise Germany during its reconstruction period.

My husband, now in Germany, along with many others, has spent four years in the army and would be very happy to be released to take a defense job.

THELMA MARLOWE

A BRITISH TERM

PARIS, April 10—In going around, I am struck at the increasing practice among all kinds of Americans to refer to their country as "the States." It seems to me that this expression has become more and more used and particularly over here since the war.

I often wonder if it is because most Americans spent considerable time in England. As I recall, "the States" was a sort of half contemptuous way of Canadian and British Tories to refer to the United States. It has happened that on several occasions I have called attention to the origin of this expression to some American acquaintances and they seemed surprised.

It is a fact, however, that not only is it generally current in conversation, but also "Stars and Stripes," the official army organ, habitually speaks of the country as "the States." I believe THE TRIBUNE some years ago called attention to this unconscious adoption of a foreign way of talking about us and I thought you might be interested to know about it now.

DAVID DARRAH

RESTORING WAR'S DEVASTATION

Hillsboro, N. C., April 17—Can you imagine my surprise when I read that our army is busy restoring the war damage done to monuments in Florence, Italy, the very country in which my brother fought and was killed. Is this former enemy country now to be the recipient of millions of dollars of American taxpayers' money? Thousands of our boys were wounded and killed, robbed, insulted, and imprisoned there, and now we are restoring the damage of the Nazis. Why aren't the American officers playing around with this doing something useful in the war so that more of our boys will not be killed on the fighting front? When are we going to stop this foolishness and get down to the business of winning this war and getting our boys back home? JOSEPH STRECKLAND

AMERICAN BEER IN GERMANY

GERMANY, April 13—Edward E. Blake of the National Prohibition committee is trying to stop the quartermaster department from brewing beer for G. I.s in France so that we on the front may slake our thirst. We feel that your newspaper would not sit quietly by and let this committee put anything over on a democracy loving people.

Things get pretty hot out here and a nice, long glass of cold beer does wonders. You wouldn't want to see us deprived of this little pleasure, in this land on nonfraternization.

RIGHT TO INHERIT

Chicago, April 21—My mother died when I was a little girl and my father, who just died, married a second wife 20 years ago. Am I entitled to a share of his real estate or will it go to my stepmother? I was the only child of the first marriage. C. G.

If the title stood in your father's name, you would inherit a share unless your father provided otherwise by will. If it was in joint tenancy with your stepmother, then you would take nothing. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT

COURT IS TOLD HOW REDS BORED IN SHOP UNION

CIO Blocks Ball Bearing Throwing Story

Objections by attorneys for local 1150 of the CIO United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers union yesterday stopped Elmer Churchill from relating to Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Superior court how heavy steel ball bearings and other objects were allegedly thrown at his back by reputed Communists and their sympathizers while he worked. A wheel on the machine he tended made 3,500 revolutions a minute, making the pellet throwing extremely dangerous to Churchill, it was said.

Churchill, a buffer, testified in behalf of Harry Morgan, 36, who is fighting to enjoin the union from having him discharged as a turret lathe operator in the war plant of the Chicago Flexible Shaft company. The union suspended Morgan as chief shop steward last June. Later Morgan and 83 others resigned from the CIO local because of its communist activities. Now the union is trying to get him fired under its maintenance of membership contract.

Red Recruiting Told

Churchill, an employe of the shaft plant for 14 years, in prior testimony told how Theodore Baer and Edward Palmer tried to recruit both himself and Morgan into the Communist party. Baer, an organizer for the CIO-UE, told them he also was an organizer for the Communist party, it was testified. Palmer said Baer had induced him to "sign up" and he in turn tried to bring Morgan and Churchill into the party, Churchill testified.

The witness on direct examination by Morgan's attorney, William J. Grace, told, over the objections of Attys. H. B. Ritman and Irving Krane, how half a dozen men [described as either Communists or dominated by the Reds in the union] tried thru the stewards council to take control in the shop. He told how they distributed New Deal election propaganda.

Churchill described an assembly of shop union members at which Krane and Pat Amato [local president] announced to Morgan's fellow workers that he had been suspended from the union as well as from the chief stewardship.

Discussion Forbidden.

"Just as I walked into the meeting," Churchill testified for Grace, "I heard Morgan say, 'Here is where the Communists take over.'"

Q.—What else happened? A.—I tried to talk, to protest. Pat Amato slammed his fist on the table. "There'll be no discussion!" he said. I demanded to know why our chief steward was not in the chair. Krane said, "Morgan's out, that's why!"

Q.—What else? A.—Joe Crilly got up to talk and so did a woman. I don't now her name. Each time Amato slammed his fist down and said, "There'll be no discussion of these charges tonight!" Then they called an election to fill Morgan's place.

Q.—Yes? A.—Four, including myself, were nominated. Krane told us nominees to go and face the wall. He called for a vote by raised hands. After it was over Krane announced Rangar Lofgren was elected. There was a loud protest. Many cried out that I had been named. But Krane held a little piece of paper cupped in his hand and said, "I'm running this and I'll tell you who's elected."

I told Willie that would happen if he didn't stop that high altitude power diving!

PAPER SALVAGE STEP-UP NEEDED FOR PACIFIC WAR

The transfer of army and navy efforts to the war in the Pacific after the fall of Germany will increase the demand for waste paper, W. T. Hoyt, director of the conservation of salvage division of the war production board in Washington, D. C., said yesterday. He is in Chicago to supervise Chicago area WPB participation in the curb collection of waste paper, scheduled for next Saturday.

The climate in the Pacific theater and the distances supplies must travel to reach forces fighting the Japs will raise the requirements for waste paper by at least 25,000 tons for each month, Hoyt said.

He explained that many types of supplies will have to be packed in cartons two and three times as thick as those which go to Europe, because of the dampness, mildew, and other jungle conditions encountered in the Pacific area.

100 Cartons of Cigarets Stolen from Drug Store

Burglars stole 100 cartons of cigarets, valued at $180 early yesterday, when they broke into the Kenwood pharmacy, 4700 Kenwood av., the owner, Joseph A. Witt of 3817 Adams st., told police.

ZILLER IS FINED FOR SWINDLE IN WAR JOB SALES

Peoria, Ill., April 23 [Special]—George W. Ziller, 530 pound Democratic politician of Weston, Ill., who was exposed during May, 1942, by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for having sold war plant jobs at the Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants near Joliet, today pleaded guilty to three charges of obtaining money under false pretenses and was fined $1,629 by Circuit Judge Joseph E. Daily.

Ziller, who maintains homes at Weston and Bloomington, was fined $450 on each charge and court costs of $279 and sentenced to one day in jail on each charge. The jail sentences were deferred at the request of defense attorneys who said Ziller needed immediate hospital treatment.

Won Venue Change

Clifford N. Collidge, state's attorney of McLean county, originally obtained confidence game indictments against Ziller, after THE TRIBUNE had turned over the results of its investigation to him. Ziller was later granted a change of venue to Peoria from Bloomington.

Workers who obtained jobs as laborers thru Ziller charged they were forced to pay $25 a year as "dues" to the Weston Democratic club, of which Ziller was president, or lose their jobs.

Farmers and others who had been promised hauling contracts during the construction of the two war plants "if they would purchase trucks" claimed that after they bought the trucks thru a firm designated by Ziller they were asked to pay $300 down and $50 a week for each truck before the truck would be put to work.

Admit Paying Fee

The truck owners admitted paying the fee demanded because they said they had invested upwards of $4,500 for each of them, and had to put the trucks to work if they expected to get their investment back.

Ziller also had an arrangement with AFL unions in Joliet whereby laborers for whom he obtained jobs had to join the union before they could go to work.

OPA CLUTTERS UP PAPER DRIVE WITH RED TAPE

With the entire nation coöperating in this week's waste paper drive to help alleviate the nation's most critical shortage, the office of price administration has dropped a monkey wrench in the machinery which threatens to disrupt orderly collection and transportation of waste paper.

That was disclosed yesterday at a meeting of the Waste Paper institute, a subsidiary of the National Waste Material Dealers' association, in the Hotel Sherman.

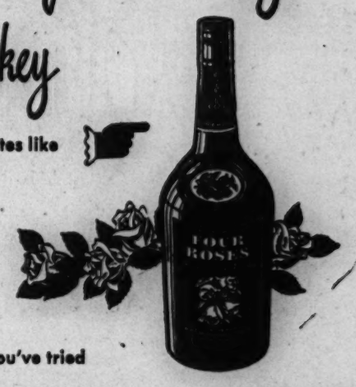

The monkey wrench is amendment 11 to the OPA's waste paper maximum price regulation 30, which became effective Saturday.

Among other things, the amendment requires that manifests accompany each shipment of waste paper. Spokesmen said the industry does not have the man power to comply with this provision and that it shows a lack of understanding of the industry.

They also said the OPA "blandly ignored" the advice of its waste paper advisory committee in issuing the amendment.

Met's Season Here to Draw Gala Crowds

BY JUDITH CASS

EVERY seat has been sold for the opening performance next Monday night in the Civic Opera house of the New York Metropolitan Opera company. "Lucia di Lammermoor," with Lily Pons, will be the first production of the Metropolitan's week long engagement, and the names of those who have tickets for opening night, as well as for several other performances in the limited engagement, are familiar ones in operatic circles here.

The revival Thursday night of "The Golden Cockerel," sung in English, promises to bring out an "old guard" opera audience. "Le Coq D'Or," as the opera is called in French, was produced only once by the Chicago Opera company, and that was in 1935, when George Woodruff and the late George Lytton were guiding the affairs of a revived opera company here. It was presented at the request of the opera box committe, headed at that time by Mrs. Henry Sprague Sturgis [the former Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne], who, with the aid of Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, and others of the committee, made the evening a gala one.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane has seats for "The Cockerel," as well as for opening and closing nights and "Lohengrin," which will be heard Tuesday. Others who will be hosts on opening night are the Charles H. Swifts, the Robert Hall McCormicks, Mrs. James G. McMillan, Mrs. Millard B. Kennedy, Mrs. Wentworth Field, the Thomas W. Hindes, the Fred A. Poors, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, the Stewart Boals, Mrs. Hamilton Daughaday, and Miss Rose Dickinson.

Abner J. Stilwell, president of the Chicago Opera company, and Mrs. Stilwell will return from California next Sunday. Their opening night guests will include Edward Johnson, director of the Metropolitan; Thomas Sidlo, who heads a civic committee which has presented the Met in Cleveland for many years; Mrs. Sidlo, and Mr. and Mrs. Elija Martindale of St. Louis.

Chairman of Benefit Party

Mrs. Robert J. Regan Jr., who is chairman of a country supper benefit party Circle 13 of the Oak Park and River Forest center of the Infant Welfare society will give May 18 in the Westward Ho Country club. The annual spring luncheon of the woman's auxiliary of the society was held yesterday in the Arts club.

Infant Welfare Women Survey Fund Projects

BY ELEANOR PAGE

Next week has been designated as National Baby week, but every day is "baby day" to members of the woman's auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society of Chicago, which will sponsor the observance here.

Representatives of the 34 infant welfare groups in the Chicago area met for their 18th annual spring luncheon yesterday in the Arts club, and after hearing brief talks by Mrs. Pope Dodge, president of the auxiliary, and Miss Jeanette Townsend, extension secretary of the society, they spent a few minutes comparing notes on ways and means of raising money to maintain a corps of doctors, nurses, and nutritionists, to provide health for babies and expectant mothers in the congested areas of Chicago.

The more than 3,000 members of these groups raised $109,495 and made 11,962 articles of clothing for infant welfare babies last year. They also spent 5,481 hours in the stations weighing babies and doing clerical work to help the hard pressed nurses. The society had 11,311 children and mothers under its care last year.

Herself a recent grandmother, Mrs. Dodge praised the work that other grandmothers still are doing for the society. Miss Townsend spoke of the work that is done for expectant wives of service men.

Some of the society's funds will come from a number of benefits on the calendar for May, among them an all-day event the La Grange center will give May 5 in the Edgebrook Country club; a luncheon and bridge party to be given by the Hinsdale center May 16; a country supper to be given in the Westward Ho club by Circle 13 of Oak Park and River Forest May 18; a dance in the Riverside Country club planned by the Riverside center for May 19, and a cocktail party the Oak Park and River Forest center will give May 19 in the Racquet club.

The Hinsdale, the North Shore, the Kenwood, and the Kenilworth centers will hold rummage sales next month. The Kenwood Social Service club and the Beverly Hills center maintain year around re-sale shops.

The Boss Speaks His Mind

Gordon B. Wheeler paraphrases a verse which appeared recently in this column, thus:

Transcribe exactly what's dictated,
And your boss'll be elated
By your grammar, punctuation.
Write it without variation:
You're applauded for the letter
And told your shorthand's getting better!

"Robert Louis Stevenson," continues Mr. Wheeler in his letter, "once wrote, 'I made up what it pleases me to call my mind.' When I dictate 'obtain' instead of 'exist' with respect to 'conditions' there is good and ample substantiation for the selection of the employed word. Some—but all too few—of us believe fervently in saying what we mean, and when we say it, we want it written as dictated.

"Please do not interpolate any unimplied invective, rancor, or diatribe. [Imagine a stenographer or secretary changing any of that in transcribing her notes without my knowing it!]

"I have—heaven be praised!—a preeminently accurate secretary who writes exactly what I dictate!"

How's Your Digestion?

It occurs to me that every one except the real offender is accused in any waitress-white collar girl controversy. After all, why should the customer pay twice for the service accorded her in a restaurant or beauty shop? Why pay the waitress and indirectly the bus boy, etc.? Why should not the price of a meal include an adequate wage for the employes of the restaurant?

Aside from this, a group of us white collar girls disagree that "most men take the food the way it comes on the menu, wait their turn, and always leave a tip." Isn't the percentage about the same on substitutions? As for waiting their turn, men don't have to worry. Often they are waited on before their turn!

So far as tips are concerned, some men make things even harder for the business girl by leaving a sum out of proportion to the price of the meal and out of proportion to what most office girls can afford.

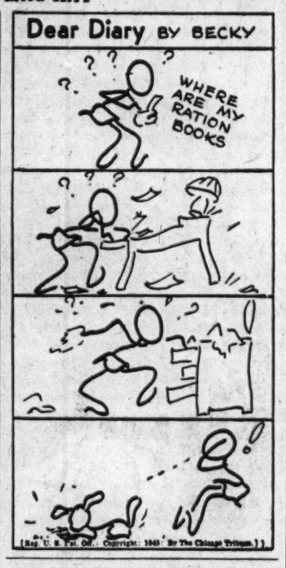

To me, tipping is an un-American habit and the sooner something is done to abolish, or at least modify it, the better will be the digestion of a lot of people.

Army Nurse

Back after 18 months at the front, an army nurse, Capt. Theresa Archard, has written a book of her experiences and has given it the title "G. I. Nightingale." It's well named, because the story is told with no straining for dramatic effect, no more heroics than you find on the lips of the average soldier who returns from overseas. . . . A human tale and a vital one, and not the least to recommend it is the photograph of the very charming author, the modern Florence Nightingale in uniform. Published by W. W. Norton, $2.50.

Pianist Blackwell Plays Correctly, but Without Fire

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Ethel Blackwell, a pianist from Baltimore, made her debut in recital in Kimball hall last night before a small but friendly audience.

Her playing reflects good schooling, native intelligence, and taste. The exterior forces that have been brought to bear upon her musicianship have all been to the good; that which still needs to be accomplished must come from within. She plays correctly, if without brilliance, and the musical intention is usually above reproach. But the pervasive gentleness of her style deprives her interpretations of both animation and enthusiasm.

Bach's French Suite in G major was thus neat and unflustered but so apathetic it lost all rhythmic impulse. Mozart's beautiful and rarely heard Sonata in C major [Köchel 330] resented this treatment less, tho a nearly unaccented Mozartean rondo is a contradiction in terms. Novelty was injected into the program by the first local performance of a Passacaglia by Walter Piston, which produced some baleful sounds from the piano, but seemed otherwise unimportant. Miss Blackwell made nothing at all of two Shostakovich Preludes, then relapsed into suitable dreaminess for Debussy's "La terrasse des audiences au clair de lune." As for Beethoven's Variations in F major, Opus 34, the music varied but the pianist did not.

If Baby Must Be Fenced In, It Should Be for Short Periods

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Well," said the great-grandmother as the baby stood at the bars like a little chimpanzee at the zoo, and "yipped," and even jumped up and down in frustration, looking as if he were having a tantrum, tho he wasn't. "I suppose you know what's the matter. To all really practical purposes he's too old for his play pen."

"He had to come out on that 'great open space' that little children love—the floor." [Constance Bannister Photo]

His mother and I had tried to think it might be teeth, but we gave up and gave in. The baby was simply so dynamic, so eager, so strong, so interested, so companionable that he needed wider worlds to conquer. He had to come out on that "great open space" that little children love—the floor.

Convenient—and sometimes even necessary as a play pen is—there comes a time at last when the baby is painfully frustrated by being kept in it for long periods of time. When he is 7 or 8 months or so old, his span of attention is short for the playthings we offer him; there is really, at that time, little he can do with them, and he grows bored.

Our baby at 7 months was, at the time of his great-grandmother's visit, crawling and pulling himself to stand, or work along the play-pen rail on his toes, like a little ballet dancer.

So that day we vacuumed the living room rug again, put our cat and Scottie in the kitchen, dressed the baby in warm corduroy overalls, a tiny striped jersey and booties, and put him down on the floor. There was a moment of amazement—a this-is-too-good-to-be-true expression in his blue eyes—and then he "got going." Fat little hands slapped on the rug as he crawled about in joyous freedom. He pulled himself up at the sofa, coffee table, and piano bench, and inched along, patting each surface like mad in his delight.

When your little baby is no longer little, you will find that something has to be done about his great energy—for his sake and yours.

Thru the Looking Glass

Nothing that's come to our desk in the last few months has been quite as welcome, or warmed our heart quite as much, as four sachet powders in pink plastic jars.

Never one to swoon over a package and not care about the product, we will tell you first about the sachets. They're fine white powder, heavily scented, and while all are fine, we believe the one in heliotrope beats anything we've ever seen. We have loved it for years. Dust a little into the dresser drawers, into your lingerie, or the lining of your pocketbook and you'll have a perfume about you that is unusual, intriguing, and incredibly beautiful. Heliotrope is a hard fragrance to capture; the maker of these has it nailed with a really breathtaking beauty and fidelity.

One of the four is honeysuckle, lovely too, for those who like a scent that's sweet and somnolent. The others are blends, one floral, one indefinable but, as you may have gathered, the heliotrope is our special baby.

As one of the experts in the arts field remarked when she saw these jars on our desk, "a year ago I never would have believed that anything as exquisite could have been made in plastic." These are simple but sensational in the artistic sense. They're a delicate pink, lettered in gold, and as lovely in line as anything in glass ever was. Just one would make a small, perfect gift; all four make a dressing table ensemble women will love.

These powders can and should be used as a body perfume; they're wonderful in this role. And they most certainly should be used to scent your prized possessions. A few grains pack a small avalanche of scent.

Augustana Choir in Concert at Orchestra Hall; Notes on the Stage and Opera

Of all instruments, the human voice is the most beautiful and the least predictable, and probably the major source of satisfaction or sorrow to the conductor, who is a self-appointed architect of sound. Henry Veld, who manipulates the vocal maneuvers of the Augustana College choir and its subdivision, the Jenny Lind chorus, is a builder whose material changes with the seasons, and tho the 1945 chorus filled Orchestra hall last night in traditional fashion, it is not the best Mr. Veld has brought to Chicago. But his standard is high, and even his second best is worth hearing.

Lacking the voices to create a magnificent choral tone, Mr. Veld has woven what he has into a vocal fabric at its more beautiful when it clings to lyrical shadows, highlighted by sopranos that sometimes glinted as yellow gold as some of the heads of the singers. Singing alone, the girls were at their best in the consecrational music from "Parsifal" and in a lovely but unidentified Swedish encore, while the choir as a whole had its most memorable interlude in Palestrina's "Gloria Patri." Infinite pains had gone into the intricate Bach motet, but Mr. Veld's Bach scorns the baroque that is its birthright. His is a Gothic Bach, stalwart within his choir's vocal limitations, but grim.

Two Guesses, H. G.

"Apropos of your comments on early productions of 'Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg' in Chicago," writes H. G., "I seem to recall one given during the early years of the present century, at the Auditorium. Not being a musician, I recall but three members of the cast—Slezak, whom I had frequently heard at the opera in Vienna during my student days; Gadski and Van Rooy. The personnel of the quintet was notable, but I cannot recall the conductor, whose efforts did not seem to equal those of Mahler and Richter of the Vienna opera. If such a production was indeed given, could you enlighten me as to the approximate date and conductor?"

From my research, H. G., you have two companies mixed. Grau brought "Die Meistersinger" to the Auditorium in April, 1903, when his German wing included Gadski, Nordica, Schumann-Heink, Homer, Burgstaller, Van Rooy, Bispham, and Edouard de Reszke, Alfred Hertz conducting. In April, 1910, the Metropolitan's "Meistersinger," also at the Auditorium, held Slezak and Gadski, but Soomer was the Sachs. The conductor? One Arturo Toscanini, who set the town in a blaze still going strong after 35 seasons.

Notes

"Ten Little Indians" closes at the Studebaker Saturday night, a week earlier than anticipated. It will play a week in Milwaukee before invading Detroit. . . . "Dear Ruth" began to sell out at the Harris the middle of last week, which so set up its producers that they are getting ready to organize a west coast troupe and a second overseas company. They also intend to sponsor their own English production, when the time comes. . . . "Othello" is seriously considering a New York return engagement at the City Center, of which Paul Robeson was a founder. The Erlanger engagement probably will end May 26 or June 2.

Marie Blanke Is Winner of 2 Art Awards

BY ELEANOR JEWETT

Marie Blanke, noted and well loved Chicago painter, has just received two important awards. In the current exhibition by the Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors, Chicago Galleries, 215 N. Michigan av., the gold medal of the association was awarded to Miss Blanke by practically unanimous vote on the first ballot and then by an enthusiastic unanimous vote. Her magnificent still life of a large desk crowded with accessories also was rewarded with the Municipal Art league prize. The desk, by the way, belongs to another familiar figure in the art world, Lucie Hartrath.

Marie Blanke again is represented this month in the 29th annual exhibition by professional members of the Arts club, in the Art Club galleries. Her painting there, "In the Conservatory," is a gorgeous medley of green leaves.

There are a number of outstanding paintings in this show. Joseph Allworthy offers a very lovely portrait of Mrs. Allworthy and Oskar Gross a charming canvas, "Louise." Peggy Palmer Burrows tops the humor of the show with her intriguing and provocative "Gertrude Stein." Maude Martin Ellis has a captivating portrait of a young sailor, "Bud." Three studies in contrast, each a striking portrait, are "Portrait of Prince René de Bourbon-Parme" by J. W. de R. Quistgaard, the exquisite miniature of a young girl with her hair by Ann Martin, and the fine "Portrait of Dr. Emery Grimm" by Winnifred Pleimling.

"Brook in Snow" by Frederic Tellander is a superb landscape. Lt. Ralph Von Lehmden offers "Juke Box Jam," depicting Negro sailors really enjoying themselves, one of the exciting items in the show. Nina K. Griffin has a beautifully composed landscape with fascinating sun and shadow effects, "Michigan Shores," and, just across the gallery, is Charles P. Killgore's "Blue and Gold," a nostalgic homestead in the California hills.

Among the other excellent paintings are "War and Peace" by Averil Conwell, "November Morning" by Edithe Jane Cassady, "Lobster Salad" by Ivan Le Lorraine Albright, "Fungi" by Frances Foy, "Wash Day" by J. Jeffrey Grant, "Natalie's House" by Clinton King, "Sea Flowers" by Milo Winter, and "Lake at Lake Street, Evanston" by Stokely Webster.

Prize winners in the current North Shore Art guild exhibit, Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers' store, were announced yesterday. Richard Chase, Todros Geller, and Ruth Van Sickle Ford made up the jury of awards. The first prize went to "Tennessee Landscape" by John Nachorny, second prize to still life of flowers and apples by Lucille Keeler, and third prize to the colorful "Morning in Taxco" by Myrtle Frankovitz. Honorable mention was awarded to Mae B. Alshuler and Mary K. O'Malley.

'Midsummer Nightmare' ..... By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton suddenly reverts to a childhood habit of walking in her sleep. She and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy an enchanting little cottage, assigned to them by Sybrand Jennesma, and cared for by Tillie.

INSTALMENT II.

ONE BIG HAPPY FAMILY

In the right wing of the house Sybrand Jennesma had established his personal offices. His Grand Rapids furniture factory had been turned over to a competent 4-F general manager, Dirk Adams, who had converted it to making gliders for the war.

Sybrand had completely removed himself and his private staff. Adams ran the factory efficiently, produced the required amount of the correct product, and raked in the prescribed profit. Jennesma saw no need to interfere or bother himself with supervision.

Sybrand preferred to concentrate on plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention. It was a motor for a new type of car.

The Jennesma country home on the loveliest bend of the broad Grand river was seven miles from Grand Rapids. There was no transportation but cars. The gas shortage, therefore, made it advisable to quarter his staff on the premises—Miss Warburton and her secretary in the cottage, Jason Kimball, handling the publicity, in the big house.

The Jennesmas had all chipped in financially but it was necessary to join forces with some established car body firm. Sybrand had managed to attract the attention of the fabulous Morgan Riley who owned a large financial interest in a car body company. The great man had not bothered to investigate, himself, but experts were busily checking mechanical details and issuing reports.

Riley, also, had sent his close friend, Sen. North to look over the Jennesmas and advise him on their caliber and characters. Congress, luckily, had adjourned at just the right moment.

The senator had been on the job for two weeks. There was no doubt that he intended to extend his visit as long as necessary.

The two Jennesma brothers were standing on the north veranda as Miss Warburton approached the office wing. Two huge Hollanders with equally sandy hair and startlingly blue eyes, their smooth wide faces were shiny and hard as if molded from some plastic.

But Sybrand's erect carriage, his dapper dab of mustache, his better grooming and general air of sophistication made him seem very different. Gerrit had the stoop of the scholar. He wore glasses which he was continually mislaying. His dour, unfriendly manner was habitual.

Miss Warburton threw out a quick good morning, and hurried by them. She had once been in Sybrand Jennesma's closest confidence but, lately, Gerrit had supplanted her. She found herself more and more relegated to upper secretary, instead of general aid. It rankled, but she was determined not to show it.

"Good morning, Mrs. Jennesma. How are you?"

Sybrand's wife stopped rocking. She was a plump, petulant woman with a little pink pout for a mouth.

"My heart's bothering me again, Miss Warburton. And I think I've got pernicious anemia."

Miss Warburton said what was expected of her. Mrs. Jennesma's passions were food, diseases, and jewelry.

In the hallway, Miss Warburton was almost run down by a whirling dervish with a handful of papers.

"Hi! Have you time to look at these?"

Jason Kimball was a wiry, restless young man. He was not at all good looking. There was something owlish about his droll face in its few sober moments.

Kim lived principally on carrots with the idea of bringing his sight up to the requirements of the United States navy.

"I'll look at the paper," Miss Warburton told him.

"You'll have to hurry. Your moth is hunting his flame. He's got the last Congressional Record with that speech of his you said you were so interested in."

"Good heavens!"

She opened the office door. Kim followed her in.

Winnie stopped typing. "I have to go to the dentist today, Kim."

"Ask papa to lend you a car. You can drive." Kim drew up a chair to Miss Warburton's desk.

Winnie's face was peony pink. "Thanks, Sir Gala-lout."

"I'm not sticking my head in any lion's mouth."

Her lips tightened. She glanced down at the large fraternity ring on her left hand. She would have died twice rather than admit it had disappointed her. The noble trustfulness of her beloved was based on a blastproof belief in his own peerless charms. Every one knew it.

Sybrand Jennesma had the faculty of looking facts in the face and seeing what he wanted to.

For instance, he had a bad case of the we're-all-one-big-happy-family complex which affects so many employers. The staff dined each evening with Sybrand, his wife, and his brother, and currently, Sen. North. And they were supposed to dress for it and like it.

After dinner the employes were expected to continue the illusion of being guests except when Sybrand needed one of them for a spot of overtime.

Each evening, Mrs. Jennesma and Gerrit withdrew to a corner where they silently played cribbage. Neither showed any enjoyment.

Sen. North stuck to Miss Warburton. She had listened patiently to his reading from the Record and felt she was due a reprieve. But none was in sight.

The white silk jacket she wore over a dark green chiffon dress was startlingly becoming to her flushed cheeks. North's hard, ugly face was so close to her shoulder that they appeared together in a mirror in the hall. She caught his burning brown eye in it.

"How do you like that picture?" he whispered.

She gave him what she hoped was a noncommittal smile.

"Jennesma has put a car at my disposal," he said. "Let's go for a ride and cool off."

"But I'm not warm."

He looked at her. Then he laughed, ruefully.

"No, you're not, are you?"

She didn't want to smile, but it got away from her. They surveyed one another keenly from behind the camouflage of laughter.

"I promised Winnie and Kim I'd play bridge, if we could get a fourth."

"If that's the best you can do, I'll buy it."

Hilda Jennesma Paradine stopped dramatically in the doorway, a slender red lash of a woman. She had once been very pretty.

Behind loomed the bulk of her fourth husband, Eddie Paradine, a soft, fat man with beautiful long lashed blue eyes. Hilda had found him on the radio, singing love songs to box-top-saving housewives. Because other women wanted him, she took him.

The bidding:

1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of hearts.

The player who does not avail himself of the greatest number of chances to win a hand, is waging a losing fight. The declarer in today's hand went along gayly following the lines of least resistance and felt himself victimized by bad luck, when in point of fact he did not select the best possible chance to fulfill the contract.

Against the final contract West made the orthodox lead of the three of hearts. Dummy played the four, East the ten, and South the ace. At this point declarer reasoned that if the diamonds would break three-three, or the jack of diamonds would drop, he could count 10 tricks. He consequently played the king and queen of diamonds, retaining the king of hearts as an entry. When that suit failed to break favorably he was held to eight tricks.

Unfortunately South did not realize that six outstanding cards will probably break four-two rather than three-three. It is well to bear in mind that while an odd number of cards will probably "break," an even number probably will not.

If, however, the diamonds happen to fall three-three, declarer should be willing to pay 30 points for an increased chance of making his contract. By that is meant that he should have been satisfied with four diamond tricks rather than five.

The better play would have been to overtake the queen of diamonds with the ace and continue the suit. If the suit divides evenly the remaining diamonds will be good and nine tricks are available. If the diamonds do not break, there is the further chance that when the queen is overtaken with the ace, the nine will fall and the eight can force out the jack, which would have taken place in this hand. It might be argued that if West had held four diamonds to the jack-nine this play would not have succeeded. But in that case, no line of play would have been successful.

Note that attacking the club suit would not have worked, because East would win the first club trick and clear the hearts while West still had the king of clubs for entry to bring in the remainder of his suit.

Eggs are abundant again, so that our egg-a-day dietary standard isn't at all out of the question. Eggs are a good replacement for meat, too. They're one of our best protein foods. . . . The dried eggs going overseas to the boys are better now. They're of better quality, and vacuum packed so that they get to their destinations in excellent condition. You can't serve dried eggs poached or fried, of course, but they taste fine in desserts, egg entrees, and custards. Army cooks are learning how to use them, too, so there should be fewer kicks.

There's plenty of milk, another important protein food, and the dairy industry tells us we can look forward to more ice cream soon. That's good news to help offset the gloomy outlook for meats. Floating refrigerators have been developed to carry ice cream to the Pacific war theater. Special freezers turn out 10 gallons every seven minutes.

Asparagus, home grown onions, new cabbage, green beans, and peppers are good buys in vegetables these days. There seem to be plenty of pineapples and good quality strawberries to satisfy our craving for seasonal fresh fruits. What could be more appetizing than a platter of sliced fresh fruits, including pineapple, bananas, oranges, and avocado, garnished with berries, and served with an accompanying honey sweetened dressing?

Food companies continue to experiment with dehydrated and frozen foods. Results of their adventures indicate that post-war cooking will be simplified, and allow more variety. Already such frozen combinations as chicken a la king, meat and vegetable stew, pie fillings, whole ready to eat pies, and cake and cookie doughs are available in certain vicinities, short cuts in meal preparation which have a wide appeal.

Sometimes "cold cuts," like liver sausage, pickle, and pimiento loaf, veal loaf, and ham sausage, are easier to buy than fresh meats. "Cold cuts" really is a misnomer, because all of these meats are delicious when served hot. They go far in casseroles with potatoes or other vegetables, make excellent dishes when sliced and baked in a tomato or mushroom soup sauce. They may be sliced and fried, too.

TURN IN WASTE FATS!

Transfer Pattern

BY NANCY CABOT

Dainty Dutch girls scurry thru their daily chores on colorful kitchen towels. By omitting the days of the week, the hot iron transfer pattern of seven figures may be used to decorate potholders, wall pictures, or what you will. Embroidered in a combination of outline and cross-stitch, these figures may be created in a short time.

THE QUESTION

What mess have you ever made in your home that your wife won't know about until she reads this column?

WHERE ASKED
Palmer House arcade.

THE ANSWERS

J. D. Harris, secretary-treasurer, Atlanta, Ga.—On a Sunday morning I got up to make some blueberry muffins. I'd never made them before but I wanted to surprise my wife. What a mess! I got the hard rocks out of the oven, threw them in the garbage can, and washed the dishes. I had toast in the toaster as she came downstairs.

Harry Buch, wholesaler, Detroit, Mich.—I accidentally broke a candy dish that I brought my wife from New York, I picked up every little piece and didn't mention the accident to her. On my next trip to New York I bought another dish just like it and replaced it. She never missed the broken one and until now I've never mentioned it.

Bud Blum, wholesaler, Detroit, Mich.—My wife would never forgive me if she could have seen that bottle of eggnog splashed all over the record machine in our recreation room. Before I could help myself, it slipped out of my hands and spilled. My friends looked on while I cleaned it up. She was never told.

Edgar F. Raseman, president of storage company, Kalamazoo, Mich.—When my wife is home she's particular about not having ashes on the rug. When I'm home alone, ashes are a perpetual mess. Before she comes home I get out the vacuum sweeper and abolish the evidence. To look at the rug, you'd never know the difference.

Joe Cotter, salesman, 1534 Fargo av.—While my wife was out of town I took it upon myself to make some home brew and hide it, inasmuch as I knew she wouldn't approve. I had it on top of a high cabinet. One morning at about 3:30 o'clock it blew up and splashed over the ceiling. I had to wash the kitchen—walls, ceiling, and floor.

Smart Cottons Reach Shops; the Rush Is On

BY REA SEEGER

If you crave the smartest cottons, shop now! For cottons are as rare as heirloom jewels these days, and the first offerings will probably be all that will appear. The fresh clean charm of ginghams, cotton seersuckers, and fast disappearing smooth textures of all kinds has so much appeal that these dresses will go fast. Prices are stratospheric compared to previous years of plenty, and cotton house dresses are cherished and worn for gala occasions.

The current showings of cotton play clothes almost tempt any cotton collector into wearing sunback dresses and short skirts for every hour under the sun. Huge plaids and checks are popular and plentiful in these collections. Resourceful designers have cunningly combined a little real cotton with rayon or rayon mixtures and achieved distinction of contrast. A plaid blouse or jacket with a slim dark skirt, or a dress with bands or squares of cotton alternated with rayon, using bright with dark colors, are typical of these skilful cotton saving schemes.

Pique, broadcloth, dimity, dotted swiss voile, and organdies are conspicuously absent from the spring collection, and when occasional bolts or yardage of these stuffs do arrive, they vanish in an hour or less. The cottons that are in and ready for the first warm weather, however, are especially tempting, for the designers have fashioned them with the same skill and imagination formerly lavished on the finest of satins and summer silks. Dressmaker details, such as applique and cutout details of the cotton print, are used as trim. So cotton this spring and summer is cherished and valued as the luxury material it really has become.

Pledge of Loyalty Sent to Truman by Methodist Bishops

For the first time since the inauguration of George Washington an official greeting of the Methodist church has been conveyed to the President of the United States. The council of bishops of the Methodist church made this its first item of business yesterday at its annual meeting in the Stevens hotel. Bishop H. Lester Smith, Columbus, O., presided. The resolution adopted read, in part, as follows:

"Over 150 years ago, shortly after the inauguration of the first President of the United States, Francis Asbury and Thomas Coke, first bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church in America, visited George Washington and brought to him the first official greeting to come from any denomination in the new nation. Today, after the passage of a century and one-half, the council of bishops of the Methodist church, representing 8 million members, at its first meeting since your induction as President, sends you cordial greetings and best wishes.

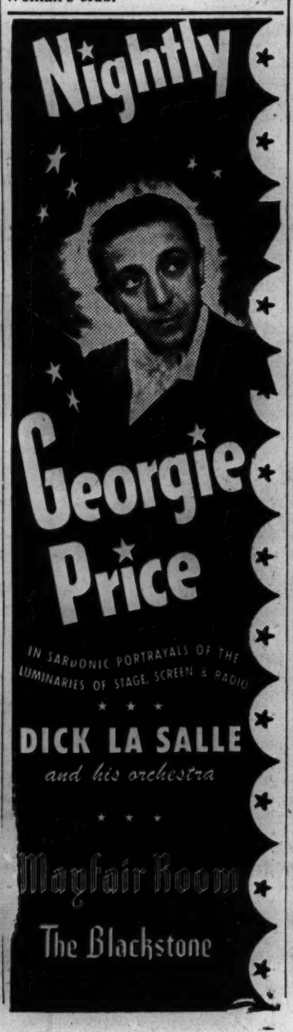

"In the name of American Methodists, always patriotic and loyal to the government of the United States, we welcome you to your high office and pledge you the allegiance and coöperation of our church. Already we have learned, in the language of the address of our first bishop to George Washington, to place 'full confidence in your wisdom and integrity for the preservation of civil and religious liberties which have been transmitted to us thru the providence of God.'"

The council of bishops, consisting of 33 voting bishops and seven who have retired and are consultatives, will conclude its sessions Friday. Other business to be considered during the week includes discussion of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, work in civilian camps and defense areas, and student enrollment in seminaries.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 23—If George Cukor directs "Green Dolphin Street" he hopes Katharine Hepburn will do the leading role. The book has sold 800,000 copies. . . . Sidney Kingsley is writing a part for Hepburn in "The Homecoming of Ulysses." . . . "Early to Wed" waits for Keenan Wynn. He has only about one week's work, and they figure he'll be able to do it in two months. . . . Esther Williams and Van Johnson rehearsed a musical number in "Early to Wed" in Portuguese, for two weeks, with Ethel Smith at the organ. Both were eager to get it right, so Esther called up Carmen Miranda and asked whether they could come over to her house and do it for her. They did, and they rolled that good neighbor right onto her own floor.

A True Story and a Good One

Here's a true yarn. The Bing Crosbys never saw "Going My Way" till one week before he got his Oscar. They had planned to see the preview together, then Bing went overseas. When he returned, it was playing out of town. Then Dixie, his wife, was taken ill and went to the hospital. After that, they went to a little theater in Glendale. When they got there, there was a long line. Bing pulled his hat well over his eyes, and they stood in line, waiting their turn. He wasn't recognized until they got into the lobby. A kid recognized him and said, "Hey! There's Crosby!" But it was too late then—they were in the theater, and stayed. Yes, they liked it, too. . . . "A Song to Remember" has done sensational business everywhere.

Shorties and Snippets

Arthur Hornblow's next will probably be "Great Temptations" with Greer Garson. . . . Chuchu Martinez, new Mexican singer, stopped the show at the Troc after eight encores—that's all there was, there wasn't any more. . . . Charles Lind, who hails from Philadelphia, is in the coast guard. He appeared in "Tars and Spars," but signed a post-war contract at Paramount. . . . I ran into Constance Bennett and leading man George Rigaud after they'd finished an additional love scene for "Paris Underground." The scene was a coal cellar. The always immaculately groomed Connie was anything but—but I guess love and kisses even on the screen will make up for anything. . . . Arnold Pressburger had better change the name of "Vidocq" now. George Sanders, his star, finds it difficult to pronounce.

Sitting Postponed

The other day a magazine sent a photographer to Paulette Goddard's house to photograph Paulette and her husband, Burgess Meredith, made up as Ernie Pyle. They were all ready, except for Meredith. He couldn't find the clothes he'd worn as Ernie. It seems their Filipino boy had the day off. He'd received them a few days before, but the clothes were so dirty he sent them to the cleaners. . . . Bet Mary Pickford is sorry she lost out on "Junior Miss." It's turning out to be a great piece of film. . . . Mary's finding costs on "One Touch of Venus" mounting daily. . . . I hear Artie Shaw is deaf in one ear, yet he makes $17,000 a week on his music. He's selling his Beverly home—says he can't afford to live there. . . . William Jacobson writes from London that Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" opened with a roar—jewels, flowers, and furs such as hadn't been seen since 1939. "The British are becoming more unpredictable daily," he writes. "Bebe Daniels' 'Panama Hattie' is expected to run until Christmas. WACs over here are unhappy about 'Keep Your Powder Dry' but Cole Porter's tune 'Don't Fence Me In' has caught on. Jinx Falkenburg's brother Tom is teaching WACs his tennis maneuvers."

Smooth Hair Effect Boosts Dating Rating

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Often there only is a hair's breadth difference between getting a smooth date for Friday night and being left home without one to listen to the radio and wondering what the crowd is doing tonight. And because hair can make such a difference to personal appearance and hence to a fellow or gal's dating rating, it deserves special care to keep it as clean, healthy, and well groomed as possible.

On the SOLID side

For the fellows the problem is more simply solved. Cleanliness is the first rule with a thoro shampoo as often as necessary—usually once every 10 days but perhaps more frequently in some cases. A brisk brushing before going to bed at night [or did you think that brushes were for girls only] and a cut or trim often enough to keep you from looking like an overgrown wheat field are the next two important steps. A smart Joe will skip the goo-ing up operations for, tho a girl likes to see a fellow's hair neatly in place, he shouldn't look like he just got back from a hard day at the lard factory. These primary precautions, plus an occasional once-over lightly with a comb, are enough to keep any fellow reminiscent of Van Johnson—and who's asking for more?

For a girl the routine is more demanding—no chance to hurry with that fringe on top. It takes frequent and regular care. A smooth gal can start on top by keeping her hair that way with 100 brisk strokes each evening. Then comes the grooming with pin curls, metal curlers, or old fashioned rags, or you'll be sorry in the morning. If hair is thick and unruly, brushing will help, and a spray of brilliantine will make it easier to keep in place.

But if your hair is not "comfortable," if it is too thick, too bushy, and too out of proportion, an occasional thinning and shaping at the hands of a competent hairdresser will work wonders for your poise and appearance. Learn to brush your hair not only before going to bed each evening but before setting out for school or for a date. Forget the old wives' tale that brushing will take the curl or set out of hair; it's not true at all. Brush thoroly before combing hair into place and it will stay in place more easily. It may seem a lot of hard work and constant care to keep your crowning glory just that but as long as your dating career often hangs by a hair, it's worth it!

Strictly for the small fry, these two patterns are easy to follow, economical with fabric, and simple to sew. One makes a rickrack trimmed, two piece model delightfully suited to the new cottons. The other, also trimmed with rickrack, has puffed sleeves and a full skirt. Style No. 2898 is designed for sizes 11 to 17. Size 15 requires 4¼ yards of 35 inch fabric. Style No. 3851 is designed for sizes 1, 2, 3, and 4. Size 2 requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch fabric with 3¾ yards of rickrack. Panda pattern No. 2857 is designed for one size requiring ¾ yard of 35 inch fabric in each color.

The Best Thing in This Film Is an Earthquake

"FLAME OF BARBARY COAST"

Produced by Republic, directed by Joseph Kane, featuring John Wayne, Ann Dvorak, Joseph Schildkraut, William Frawley, Virginia Grey, Russell Hicks, Jack Norton, Paul Fox, Manart Kippen, Eve Lynne, Mare Lawrence, and Butterfly McQueen, and presented at the Woods.

By Mae Tinée.

Here we have John Wayne in his usual cowboy role, but he strays off the range this trip and ends up in San Francisco, where he bulldogs gamblers, politicians, and a flighty feminine entertainer.

He and Joseph Schildkraut are the usual two gamblers competing for the gal—Ann Dvorak, known as "the Flame" because of her numerous admirers. Mr. Wayne is an innocent little dogie when he first hits the raucous coast, but he soon learns that gamblers play for keeps. Undaunted, he takes a few lessons in card tricks from an old pal, and first thing you know he's a millionaire with a gambling place of his own.

Comes the earthquake, which for my money was the best thing in the picture, very well photographed and quite terrifyingly realistic. You can guess who rescues the fair lady from the flame and fury and makes everything else come out just right.

The cast is well suited to the story, and the audience seemed to get a big kick out of the gambling scenes, but the plot is long and involved, and sometimes on the silly side, and I doubt very much if "Flame of Barbary Coast" will set you on fire.

DOES YOUR ADVERTISING MAKE TOO MANY SLEEPER JUMPS?

Advertising often has the fault of other salesmen—not enough attention to small towns. These days, because of slow shipments and infrequent calls by salesmen, merchants in the smaller places often think they are not getting enough cooperation from their suppliers.

Since 56 percent of the retail outlets of the U.S.A. are in towns of less than 25,000 population, the good will and confidence of this market is a prize worth cultivating.

Published weekly for thinking people in small cities and towns, PATHFINDER has a large portion of its circulation among the merchants on Main Street. Your advertisement in this vigorous news magazine is an effective way of making frequent appreciated contacts with small city dealers and their customers.

BLOCK ATTEMPT TO NULLIFY VOTE ON HOUSING BILL

Rep. Searle Protests at Tax Exemptions

BY GEORGE TAGGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 23—An attempt to kill one of Mayor Kelly's housing bills was narrowly defeated tonight in the Illinois house of representatives. The attempt was based chiefly on objections to tax exemption features of the Kelly program.

Rep. Searle [R., Rock Island] made a motion to strike the enacting clause of the bill, which would have had the effect of killing the bill. Speaker Hugh Green called for a voice vote on a motion to table Searle's motion, and decided, somewhat hesitantly, that Searle had lost.

The key bill of the Kelly housing program has been passed by both senate and house and signed by Gov. Green. Companion measures were advanced to final passage stage in the house tonfght after Searle's motion lost.

Asks Consideration by House

Searle asked whether the house would wait to consider the Armstrong bills to end tax exemptions on public housing before proceeding with the Kelly bills. Receiving no reply, he launched into an attack on the Kelly program.

"If carefully read, these housing bills are socialistic and represent a tremendous step of government into the lives of private citizens," Searle said.

Searle sketched features of the pending bill to allow the city to condemn buildings even for "faulty arrangement"—which housewives will agree covers everything, he said. The city would have the power to lease, exchange, or sell the home of nearly any citizen, he said, and rent it to slaves of the political machine.

"Are you going to shove people out of their homes and displace them as is done in Europe?" Searle asked. "The New Deal is over. The people want some economy and they should get it. The 10 million dollar state appropriation by this legislature is only a starter. Before we are thru they will be asking for 500 million for public housing."

Calls Program Communist

Lottie Holman O'Neill [R., Downers Grove], Illinois' pioneer woman legislator, charged that the city housing program belongs to the Communists more rightfully than to any one else. She said a friend enrolled in the Abraham Lincoln school of Chicago, allegedly dominated by Communists, revealed to her that the Communist legislative program calls for public housing with tax exemption as foremost on a list including public owned traction, a new state constitution and political district reapportionment.

"There is no use hiding our heads in the sand like ostriches before these facts," Mrs. O'Neill said.

Majority Leader Harris [R., Lincoln] said Republicans tempted to vote against public housing should recall that it was an honor that they ran on the same ticket with Gov. Green. He said the people are tired of "cheap politics and petty larceny" and want help to improve their conditions.

"These boys will be coming home and find out I'm not at all witty and brilliant like the letters I write!"

REPORT HOUSE WILL DELAY VOTE ON CON CON BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 23—In the face of strong opposition, agitators for a constitutional convention to rewrite Illinois' basic law said tonight that the decisive rollcall in the house of representatives might be postponed a week.

Defeat in the house of the "con con" proposal had been widely predicted if called up for adoption tomorrow. Rep. Homer B. Harris [R., Lincoln], Gov. Green's floor leader, said a postponement was possible. A final decision was delayed pending further attempts to exert pressure on house members.

To pass the house, the Harris resolution would need 102 votes, two-thirds of the elected membership. Indications were that it might fall a dozen votes short of adoption. Even stronger opposition was waiting the measure in the senate.

ECONOMY ON NEW BUDGET ASKED BY LEGISLATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., April 23—Budget slashing talk was heard tonight in legislative circles as the word was passed that Gov. Green's $127,707,634 post-war budget will be submitted Thursday.

Sen. Downing [R., Macomb], chairman of the senate appropriations committee, tonight said he was ready to introduce amendments to cut some post-war items, such as the expenditure of two million dollars for a "sports palace" at the University of Illinois. He also criticized a recommendation of $1,500,000 for university residence halls.

Amendments proposing a general reduction in biennial appropriation bills were being prepared tonight by Sen. Miller [R., Hillsboro].

New York, April 23 (AP)—Associated Press news and newsphoto service has been extended since the turn of the year to liberated European areas, Switzerland, India, and the Philippines, the AP's board of directors reported today.

The report, made at the annual meeting of the news association, said 2,500 American and foreign newspapers and radio stations were receiving AP service.

Tellers tonight counted ballots naming six members of the board of directors. Most votes were by proxy because of travel restrictions. The counting will be resumed tomorrow.

VOLUNTEER PLAN FOR RATIONING CLOTHES TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 23—The war production board today authorized retail stores to ration voluntarily all clothing and textiles to prevent overbuying and to distribute limited supplies equitably among the largest number of consumers.

Effective tomorrow, the WPB said, no wearing apparel retailer should sell to any customer merchandise in excess of his "reasonable needs." In restricting sales to scarce items, each merchant was advised to treat all his customers alike as far as possible, and to take into consideration the other customers to be served from limited retail inventories.

Limit Individual Sales

The WPB suggested that retailers limit sales in the following manner: Two sheets to a customer; two pairs of women's hose per person; men's shirts, undershirts and shorts, two of each garment to a customer; infants' and children's underwear, two garments for each child.

The voluntary rationing was outlined in a revision of the WPB's "declaration of policy" for the guidance of retailers in their distribution of textiles and textile products. The declaration is effective tomorrow and applies to all sales and sales promotions after that date.

The policy declaration also set forth a long list of clothing and textile advertising "don'ts," which are intended to decrease "scarce buying."

Opposes Play on Fears

The WPB recommended elimination of the use of consumers' fears of scarcities to promote sales. The latter included advertising of the "scarce," "buy now" and "we may not be able to get more" types.

The WPB suggested that instead of scare advertising, sales promotions thru newspapers, magazines, radio, car cards, and all other media instead be based on item advertising of regular merchandise at regular prices.

ADMIT STEALING $10,000 LOOT IN 75 BURGLARIES

Five burglars were held by Fillmore st. police last night after their capture by Berwyn detectives yesterday as they attempted to burglarize Alex's Sweet shop, 6823 W. Roosevelt rd., Berwyn. Police said the men admitted 75 burglaries in the Fillmore district and estimated their total loot at between $10,000 and $15,000.

The men were identified as Howard Thompson, alias Thomas Howard, 24, of 1314 S. Troy st., Negro, leader of the mob; Joe Bookstein, 17, of 1113 S. Troy st.; Richard Gasquoine, 17, of 1229 S. Central Park av.; Paul Passero, 17, of 1642 S. Central Park av., and Henry Glover, 16, of 3459 Fulton st.

Police said the burglars had broken into homes and taverns, taking whisky, jewelry, and war bonds, which they managed to cash. When captured yesterday Thompson was sitting in a car outside the candy shop while the four others were inside. A shotgun and two revolvers were found in the car.

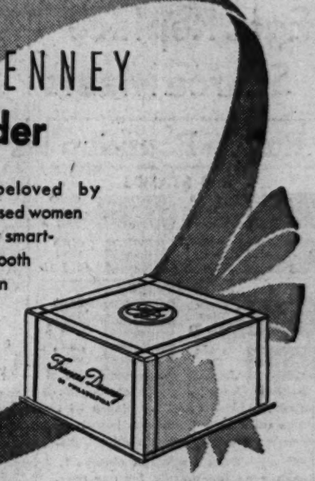

FIRE ROUTS HOTEL GUESTS

Remember When He Squawked at This?

SISSY STUFF he called soap and water ten years ago. Today when he comes in off the battlefield, a scrub-up seems as necessary as food itself.

Keeping our men clean takes 15 bars of soap a month per man. Military hospitals, in addition, must have hundreds of thousands more bars to wash the wounded before treatment.

Yet to make just 6 bars of soap takes about a pound of fats. And there are hundreds of other essentials on both the battlefield and home front... like medicines, paints, synthetic rubber, parachute fabrics, explosives and civilian soaps... of which fats are an absolutely necessary ingredient.

So won't you save more used fats in your kitchen? Every scrap and drop. Turn them in to your meat dealer. You'll get 2 red points and 4 cents for each pound...

This message has been approved by WFA and OPA and paid for by Industry.

We Must Save More Used Fats!

Welcome, World Neighbors to SAN FRANCISCO

WEBSTER'S New International Dictionary defines a neighbor as, "One entitled as a fellow being to receive, and expected to render, kindness."

Because of the increasing use of the universal realm of air, the people of the world are becoming "neighbors," with attendant responsibilities and opportunities.

Today, neighbors are but hours apart, where formerly they were separated by weeks and months.

Today, neighbors are learning respect for each other's strength, and tolerance for each other's weakness, so that tomorrow they may live in peace with each other.

Новый Международный словарь Вебстера определяет понятие «Сосед», как «некий, кто, как собрат-человек, имеет право на дружественное отношение с нашей стороны, и от него мы ожидаем того же».

В виду увеличивающегося пользования воздушным пространством, народы мира становятся соседями с присущим таковым возможностями и ответственностью.

В настоящее время соседи находятся только в часах езды друг от друга, между тем как раньше их отделяли недели и месяцы.

Сегодня соседи учатся относиться с уважением к силе каждого из них и к поддержке слабых, так чтобы мы могли завтра жить в мире друг с другом.

Соседями нас делает воздушный транспорт.

D'APRÈS le dernier dictionnaire international de Webster un voisin est un être humain digne de recevoir et de témoigner de la bonté.

Par suite de l'extension sans cesse croissante du domaine de l'air, les peuples de la terre sont tous entrain de devenir voisins et ont à subir de ce fait aussi bien les responsabilités que les avantages qui en résultent.

Les peuples voisins qui se trouvaient autrefois éloignés les uns des autres par des semaines et des mois ne sont plus séparés aujourd'hui que par quelques heures.

Les peuples voisins en sont donc venus à respecter leurs propres forces et à tolérer mutuellement leurs faiblesses de manière à pouvoir vivre en paix.

L'aviation de transport rend tous les peuples voisins.

EN LA definición de vecino, se halla implícita la idea de trato frecuente y amistoso.

Debido al creciente uso del aire, los pueblos de la tierra se están convirtiendo en vecinos, con las responsabilidades y oportunidades que esta nueva situación entraña.

Hoy, los vecinos están a pocas horas unos de otros, en tanto que en épocas pasadas se hallaban a semanas o meses de distancia.

Cada uno de ellos está aprendiendo rápidamente la lección de que debe admirar las virtudes y tolerar los defectos de los demás vecinos para lograr una paz universal y perdurable.

El transporte aéreo ha hecho que todos los pueblos sean realmente vecinos.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox, who are feeling right pert, what with their present lofty position in the infant American league race, will get together today with their recent training camp associates—the Tigers—but on this occasion it will be for keeps instead of for exhibition purposes.

The Tigers, for whom a pennant has been forecast, will be in Chicago for three days, and as they likely will spring such pitchers as Al Benton, Paul Trout, and Hal Newhouser, not to mention Slugger Rudy York, the Sox boys will have to keep their eyes on their pocketbooks.

Dykes Can't Change Lineup

It's Boss Jim Dykes' intention to try to get the jump on the Tigers this afternoon by employing Thornton Lee, his well aged lefty. Benton, who is back on the baseball beat after two years in a sailor suit, will start for Detroit.

Dykes still is hankering to do a bit of master minding with his lineup but remains bound by superstition. He thought for sure his boys would get plunked at least once in their Sunday double header with the titleholding Browns, but they surprised him, pleasingly, of course. As a result he must continue with his five game winning combination, which includes Bill Nagel on first base. Dykes wants to give the job to Kerby Farrell, the newcomer, who has made himself doubly intriguing by producing game winning pinch singles in the two times he has been asked to perform as an extra.

Orengo Gets Chance at Third

The winning combination superstitution took a sort of kicking around Sunday. Tony Cuccinello had to retire when he injured a back muscle while running out a hit in the second inning of the first game. Despite the alteration the Sox went on to grab both decisions.

It is questionable whether Cuccinello will be able to play third base today, but Dykes has a pretty good fill-in, Joe Orengo.

O'CONNOR WANTS MORE DETAILS ON COOPER DISPUTE

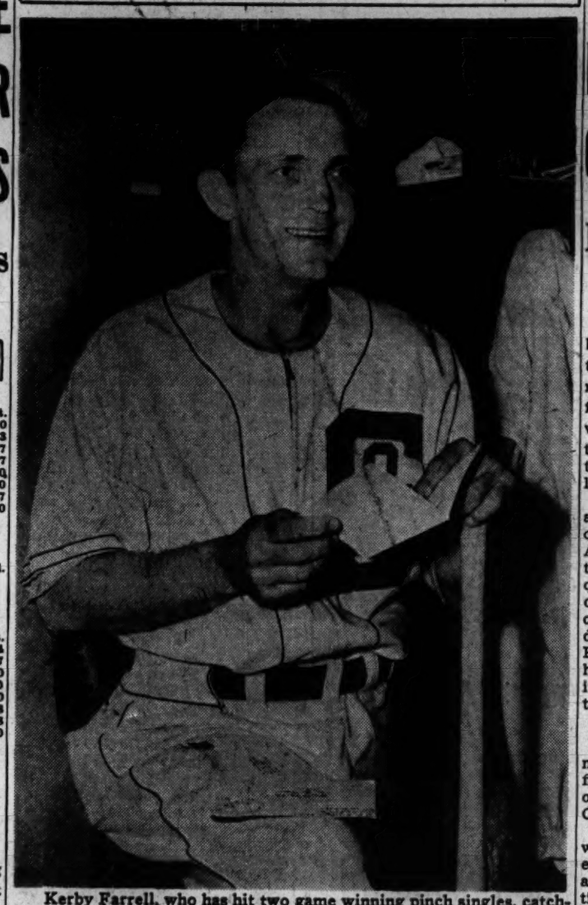

Leslie M. O'Connor, chairman of the major league advisory council, said yesterday he was awaiting information from Walker and Mort Cooper before making a decision in their salary dispute with the St. Louis Cardinals.

O'Connor last Wednesday took under advisement the Coopers' demand for salary increases from $12,000 to $15,000 after earlier dissuading them from quitting the Cardinals until the dispute went thru proper channels.

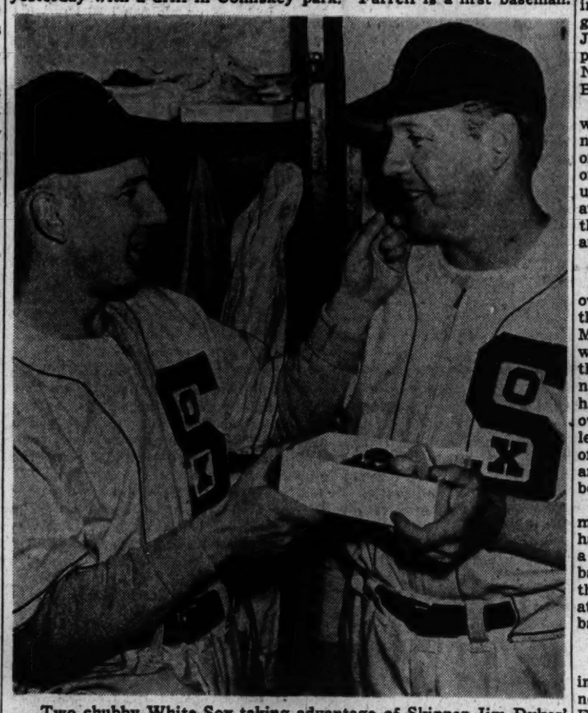

"I have obtained some information from the office of wage stabilization," O'Connor explained, "but I need more details from the Coopers. I wrote them for more information last Friday, but haven't received an answer yet."

The Coopers claim they signed for $12,000 because that figure was represented as the club salary ceiling. They demanded $15,000 when they learned Shortstop Martin Marion received a raise from $10,000 to $13,000. Walker is scheduled to be inducted April 30.

Ill Luck Stalks Milwaukee in Handball Doubles Today

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Lady Luck served a couple of hard ones at Milwaukee's hopes in the National A. A. U. senior doubles handball tournament yesterday at the Town club. The Wisconsin metropolis' representatives in the affair which opens at noon today drew not only the defending champions but also a team which has won the title three times in the last eight years.

One Milwaukee twosome, Abe Luber and Morris Minash, will take the courts against Joe Platek and Bob Quinn, Chicago's winners in the 1944 tournament held in the Lake Shore club. The other team drew Frank Coyle, present singles champion, and his partner, Ed Linz, both representing New York. Coyle and Linz won the doubles crown in Memphis, Tenn., in 1938; successfully defended it in San Francisco, Cal., in 1939, and won it again in Chicago in 1941.

The doubles field, like the singles which started last Saturday, is one of the best ever assembled for the event. It has contestants from all over the nation, including the capable Pacific Coast titleholders, Jack Dyer and Bart Hackney of Los Angeles; Angelo Trulio and Al Silverblatt of New York [and Trulio won the 1932 title with another partner]; Anthony Gentile and Fred Kligman, Middle Atlantic champions from Philadelphia, Pa.; Bob Kendler and Ray Laser, Illinois champions, and William McGreevy and Leo Peressin, National Y. M. C. A. champions from St. Louis, Mo.

There will be 16 first round

CLUB OWNERS MEET TODAY ON COMMISSIONER

Landis' Successor Still in Doubt

Cleveland, O., April 23 (AP)—Baseball's major league owners will attempt to select a commissioner tomorrow, but today they still were as far from one mind as last Nov. 25 when the death of Kenesaw Mountain Landis vacated the office for the first time since it was established 24 years ago.

The majors' four man committee, appointed to sift the long list of candidates, will make its report. And that is where the certainty of tomorrow's session ends. Even the quartet, composed of Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians, Don Barnes of the St. Louis Browns, Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs, has not decided definitely whether it will present one or several names to the owners.

May Choose Outsider

That decision probably will be made when the committee holds its final session two hours before the owners closet themselves at the Cleveland hotel.

Neither was there any indication whether the committee was considering an active baseball man such as President Ford Frick of the National league; Leslie O'Connor, former secretary to Landis and now a member of the three man body ruling the sport, or one of a large group of outsiders that includes James A. Farley, Sen. Albert [Happy] Chandler of Kentucky, Paul McNutt, and former Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio.

There was some talk of naming a war time commissioner with O'Connor the chief candidate. Proponents of this plan pointed out that many of the country's best men are tied up in war work and would not be available for so important a job at this time. The position pays $50,000 annually.

New York Clubs Want Action

On the other side, however, were owners led by Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants and Larry MacPhail of the New York Yankees who were outspoken in their belief that a commissioner should be named at once. This group said it had lined up six National league owners and at least three American league presidents who were in favor of locking themselves in the room and not coming out until a man had been selected.

"If ever baseball needed a commissioner it does now," said Stoneham. "We do not necessarily need a policeman but now is the time for baseball to plan on expanding and the man we select should be good at promotion—one that can sell baseball to the public."

Many Conceded Chance

But even the men who favor naming the commissioner tomorrow are not together on the man they want. Farley, who at one time tried to buy the Yankees, would like nothing better than to have the job, for baseball is his first love, but men close to him say he would not take it because the salary doesn't match his present income.

Rumors today were that Chandler would accept if selected, while Frick remained in the running, with O'Connor the most prominent dark horse either on a short or long term basis. Frick lacked only two of the 12 votes necessary to elect at the February meeting, and it may be his backers can rally enough votes to put over the National league president. Backers of O'Connor maintain he is the one man who knows the job because of his long association with Landis.

ILLINOIS IS HOST TO SEDALIA AIR BASE NINE TODAY

Champaign, Ill., April 23 [Special]—A revised lineup will start for the University of Illinois baseball team against the Sedalia [Mo.] air base here tomorrow.

Bill Butkovich, the leading hitter on the team last year with a .367 average, is batting .167 this season and will be replaced by Wallie Mroz, Chicago freshman, on second base. An all-Chicago battery, Pitcher Bill Lukitsch and Catcher Jim Wakefield, will start, while Jerry Kaires will be in right field in place of Howie Judson.

The Illini found their pitching good and their hitting weak as they lost two games to Michigan, 3 to 0 and 1 to 0, last week-end. Judson and Art Ecklund pitched satisfactorily but were backed up by only five hits in the two games.

ILLINOIS PASSES UP PENN RELAYS FOR DRAKE MEET

BY WILFRID SMITH

The University of Illinois track team will compete Saturday in the 36th Drake relays in Des Moines, Ia., it was announced yesterday. The decision by Leo Johnson, Illini coach, ended confusion started last week when both Drake and Pennsylvania released publicity on Illinois entries, each claiming the squad for its annual carnival.

Illinois had filed an entry for each meet, a not unusual procedure when definite decision has not been made, but the situation was complicated further because Coach Johnson reported that two of his stars, Bob Kelley and Joe Johnson, were slow in gaining condition for the outdoor campaign. At one time he intimated Illinois might not compete at all this week.

Should Win Mile Relay

While Illinois scarcely can match last year's remarkable showing at Drake when the Illini won four relays, it certainly should have the best mile relay team. Illinois won the Western conference indoor mile relay last month and then set a new record for the event at the Purdue relays.

It is likely that Kelley and Gonzales also will compete in the 440 yard invitational race. Latest entrant in this feature is Lt. E. C. Ochsenreiter of the Pratt, Kas., army air field. Ochsenreiter formerly competed for the University of Maryland. Other contestants are Dave Bolen, Lincoln, Neb., air field, and Dean Kratz, Nebraska's Big Six indoor quarter mile champion.

Nichols Will Miss Hurdle Race

Illinois will not have Dave Nichols in the high hurdles, as the National Collegiate champion has been forced out of the university temporarily because of illness. Nichols' absence leaves Harold [Whitey] Fisher of Miami [O.] university the favorite to repeat his 1944 victory.

When entries for the games closed yesterday, Bill Easton, Drake track coach and director of the meet, reported 1,000 athletes were listed from universities, colleges, and high schools. Twenty-three universities will be represented by 206 men. One hundred thirteen are entered from colleges and the remainder will come from 52 Iowa high schools, an all-time record. The total entry is the largest in the last three years.

Irish Enter Five Relays

Among the last entries was that of Bill Lund, navy student at Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland, O., who holds the national A. A. U. broad jump championship. Lund cleared 24 feet 5 inches to win this event in the Cleveland K. of C. meet last month.

Wisconsin will be represented by 16 athletes and Notre Dame, with 23 men, has entered five of the relays. Tom Jones, Wisconsin's veteran track coach, will referee the games Friday and Saturday.

Lund also will compete in the 100 yard dash and this event, according to Easton, has developed unexpectedly into one of the features. Other sprinters are Andy Shurr of Texas, who ran the event in 9 8-10 seconds to win in the Texas relays; Charles Beaudry, Marquette's brilliant sprinter; Bob Fenimore, All-American half back from Oklahoma A. & M.; Babe Dimancheff, Purdue's fleet half back; Bill Buster, Illinois; Mark Brownstein, Minnesota; Ben Harvey, Purdue; Bill Madden, Northwestern, and Bob Crossen, Missouri.

PASSEAU TESTS INJURED ELBOW IN CINCINNATI

Veteran to Open 3 Game Series

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 23—Claude Passeau whose calcified right elbow has been yielding to X-ray treatments in most encouraging fashion these last two weeks, will start for the Cubs in the series opener tomorrow afternoon. It has been indicated Ed Heusser, awaiting an army call, will pitch for Manager Bill McKechnie's boys.

The Cubs arrived here from Pittsburgh late this afternoon, after having thoroly enjoyed the scenery on a trip usually negotiated at night in a Pullman. The fellows thought the day coach ride quite jolly. The fact they won three straight from the Pirates after barely losing the opener may have had something to do with the athletes' jovial mood.

During the trip there was considerable discussion of the official scorer's ruling adjudging Ray Prim the winning pitcher in yesterday's second game, instead of Hy Vandenberg.

Vandenberg Hit Ties Game

Vandenberg replaced Eddie Hanyzewski at the start of the fifth inning, after Babe Dahlgren had given the Pirates a 2 to 1 lead with a two-run homer in the Pirate fourth. He retired the side in order in the fifth.

In the Cub sixth Vandenberg tripled to drive in the tying run, then scored the winning run on a single by Stan Hack. The latter scored later. Only three batsmen faced Vandenberg in the home sixth.

After the Cubs, leading, 4 to 2, had gone out in order in the seventh, Tom O'Brien of the Pirates opened the home seventh with a triple and held third while Dahlgren was being retired. Then Vandenberg walked the next two batsmen, loading the bases and putting the potential winning run on first. Prim went in and made Pinch Batter Spud Davis hit into a double play, retiring the side. Following this series of events Prim retired the side in order in the eighth and ninth innings.

Up to Scorer's Judgment

Thus Vandenberg pitched two and one-third innings and Prim two and two-third innings. Since the starting pitcher had not gone five innings and was behind when he retired anyhow, it was up to the scorer's judgment as to whom had pitched most effectively.

Neither reliever was scored on but Vandenberg loaded the bases and was removed with only one out. Prim worked one-third of an inning more than Vandenberg and pitched perfect baseball. Under National league rules the scorer was specifically within his province when he picked Prim as the winner, tho the usual practice is to name the pitcher of record when his team scores the winning run.

The fact that Vandenberg loomed large with his bat was not an aspect of the ruling.

Play in Chicago Friday

The Reds are the only National league team the Cubs encountered in the spring exhibition season. They won three out of five played.

The series here will be played in single games, tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday, after which the Cubs will return to Wrigley field, for another four game series with the slightly crestfallen Pirates.

UNCLAIMED RACE WINNINGS GO TO VETS—$88,362.20

The sum of $88,362.20, representing unclaimed pari-mutuel winnings at the Illinois race tracks in 1944, yesterday was turned over to the Illinois veterans' rehabilitation fund of the state treasury by the Illinois racing board.

Last year the board's initial deposit in the veterans' fund totaled $34,748, covering unclaimed tickets from July 18, 1943. The fund is being used for rehabilitation, training, tuition, maintenance in training, employment, and other veterans' services.

Wheaton college defeated Herzl's baseball team, 12 to 10, yesterday in Wheaton. The two teams were guilty of 19 errors. Herzl scored eight runs in the last two innings, but could not overcome an early Wheaton lead. Wheaton will be host to Elmhurst today.

CASS MICHAELS, BUZAS LEAD CROP OF SHORTSTOPS

Other Youngsters Get Their Big Chance

New York, April 23 (AP)—Cass Michaels of the Chicago White Sox and Joe Buzas of the New York Yankees are setting the pace today for a bumper crop of rookie big league shortstops.

Ignoring the popular definition of a shortstop as one who fields brilliantly but carries a light batting average, Michaels has a .444 mark at the end of the first week of the season and Buzas is hitting .348.

Michaels' name was Kwietniewski until last season when the Sox shipped him to Little Rock after 27 games in Chicago.

Secretary Harry Grabiner of the Sox was not notified of the change in spelling and not seeing any Kwietniewski in the Southern association lineups dialed a hurried call to the Travelers' manager. He was doubly assured by the information that the 19 year old Detroit native had legally changed his name and was whaling the ball at a .356 clip.

Buzas Quickly Makes Good

Altho Chicago drafted Danny Reynolds from the Yanks' Newark farm, Michaels won the regular job in spring training.

Buzas was taken up by the Yanks at the close of the International league season last year after hitting .297 and playing second base. Joe McCarthy installed him at short the first day of the Atlantic City workouts.

Kermit Wahl of the Cincinnati Reds, trying to fill the large shoes of injured Eddie Miller, is fielding well enough but not hitting. Dick Culler, an expensive importation from Milwaukee, is helping the Boston Braves' infield with .250 hitting and acceptable defensive work.

Granville Hamner, the Phillies' 17 year old find, is having his troubles getting started. He has hit safely only twice altho one hit did beat Brooklyn in a game. He was lifted for a pinch hitter yesterday.

Basinski Gets Chance

Brooklyn opened with Mike Sandlock, whose hitting was good enough, but his slowness afield forced Manager Leo Durocher to bench him for bespectacled Eddie Basinski, the Buffalo violinist.

Len Schulte of the St. Louis Browns, up from Toledo, had to move over from his third base job when Vern Stephens was injured and out of three games. Washington moved Third Baseman Gil Torres to short in an experiment.

Marty Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals, Buddy Kerr of the New York Giants, Frankie Zak of Pittsburgh and Roy Hughes, of the Cubs, who split his time between short and third, are the only National league veteran shortstops.

Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland, Skeeter Newsome of Boston, Ed Busch of Philadelphia, Stephens, and Skeeter Webb of Detroit, returned in the American league.

Illinois House Acts Today on Anti-Ring Bill

The Illinois house of representatives' license and miscellany committee will conduct a hearing today in Springfield on an anti-professional boxing and wrestling bill. Rep. Ragnar Nelson [R., Chicago] will preside as committee chairman.

Altho the meeting will be for proponents of the proposed legislation, the Illinois Athletic commission will be represented by Secretary Pete Miller and Lt. Col. William Troxell, inspector. Harry Scranton, member of the commission, and Jack Begun, co-promoter with Irving Schoenwald at Chicago Stadium and Marigold Gardens, also plan to attend.

Last April 6 the house committee held a hearing in Chicago for opponents of the bill, which is sponsored by Rep. Peter C. Granata [R., Chicago]. Rep. James A. Adduci [R., Chicago], who has gone on record as being for the measure, insists the bill will not effect amateur boxing in the state.

ROOSEVELT HIGH DEFEATED, 2 TO 0, BY KELVYN PARK

The Kelvyn Park baseball team yesterday made the most of three hits to defeat Roosevelt High, 2 to 0, in a practice game in Hansen park. The losers were held to two hits by Pitcher Nick Peregud.

Kelvyn Park's scores came in the sixth and seventh innings. Dick Nilson beat out a bunt, stole second, advanced to third on a fielder's choice, and counted on a long fly ball by Al Abrara for the first run. The next inning, Catcher Norm Carsello singled and scored on two errors.

St. Rita defeated Gage Park, 3 to 0, yesterday on the latter's diamond in a practice game. Lenny Strazewski, the winning pitcher, struck out 15 and yielded two hits.

EATON DEFEATS BILL PARSONS IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Jack Eaton, Detroit welterweight, was awarded a split decision over Bill Parsons, 1939 Danville, Ill., sectional Golden Gloves featherweight title holder, after a hard fought eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night.

A capacity crowd of 1,783 saw Parsons suffer a badly cut left eye in the second round and in the same round Eaton went down for no count. Parsons missed with a left in the fourth round and the impetus caused him to fall on all fours. Shortly thereafter both fighters dropped to the canvass in a wild mixup.

Bob Satterfield, also a former Golden Gloves champion, scored his second straight first round knockout when he floored Art McWhorter, Gary light heavyweight, for the count after 1 minute 51 seconds had elapsed. The hard hitting Chicagoan floored McWhorter twice before the end came.

Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor middleweight, had to survive two knockdowns to defeat Luther Brent in an exciting eight round battle. In two other matches of four rounds Carmen Greco, Milwaukee lightweight, held Eddie [Kid] Carson to a draw and Jerry Pittro defeated Don Callahan, St. Paul middleweight.

BLUEJACKETS TO PLAY N. U. TODAY ON DYCHE FIELD

Chief Specialist Bob Feller, coach of the Great Lakes baseball team, will test his pitching arm this afternoon for the first time in two years in continental United States.

The Bluejackets will play a practice game with Northwestern university at Dyche field, north of the stadium, and it was indicated last night the one time Cleveland Indian star may hurl at least part of the game. It will start at 2:30 o'clock.

At least three major leaguers and perhaps four will appear in the Great Lakes lineup. Johnny Gorsica, former Detroit Tigers' pitcher, or Feller will start the game for the Bluejackets, while Ken Keltner, Feller's teammate with the Cleveland Indians, will be at second, and Pinky Higgins, also of Detroit, at third.

Wanted—One Catcher

Feller's chief trouble in his role as coach has been in searching for a battery mate. More than a dozen would-be catchers have been tried out. Leading candidate is Jim Rice from Feller's home state. The Cedar Rapids, Ia., youngster has had only sandlot experience.

Great Lakes' first regularly scheduled game will be May 16 when Louisville of the American association will appear on Constitution field at the naval training center. The Philadelphia Phillies will be the first major league club to meet the Sailors, on May 22.

Lose Big Nine Openers

Northwestern, which had been regarded as a contender for the Western conference championship, suffered a double defeat by Iowa last Saturday, 6 to 3 and 5 to 4, in their Big Nine openers in Iowa City. The Wildcats had a 3 to 0 lead in the eighth inning of the first game when their defense suddenly tailspinned, the Hawkeyes scoring half a dozen runs in the inning.

The Wildcats beat the University of Chicago and Concordia in earlier practice games. They will go to Kalamazoo Saturday to play Western Michigan.

Retiring N. U. Director Gets Watch, Plaque

K. L. [Tug] Wilson, who will leave his position as director of athletics at Northwestern university on May 1 to assume his new duties as Big Ten commissioner, was tendered a testimonial luncheon by the Evanston chamber of commerce at the North Shore hotel yesterday.

Wilson, who had been a member of the civic organization since he came to Northwestern in 1925, was presented with a gold watch and a plaque in appreciation of his contributions to the city of Evanston. During his years as a resident of the city, Wilson had served as president of the Rotary club and president of the Evanston Sports association.

Francis L. Bacon, superintendent of the Evanston High school, who served as toastmaster, paid tribute to Wilson's long and able administration of the university's athletic program. Raymond A. Carey, luncheon chairman, and Harry L. Wells, vice president and business manager of the university, also praised Wilson's service to university and community.

Navy Winner Casey Longs for Dodgers

BY T/SGT. BILL GOODRICH

[Marine corps combat correspondent. Distributed by the Associated Press.]

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC, April 15 [Delayed]—A big, right handed pitcher who used to toss them in the normally eccentric surroundings of baseball's maelstrom — Ebbets field in Brooklyn — is pitching for a navy team here.

Hugh Casey

Hugh Casey, once one of baseball's best pitchers and now in his third year wearing navy blue, would like to be back with the Dodgers.

He'll Come Back

Questioned recently after he had shut out a Marine Raider nine, 2 to 0, the 32 year old Casey said he intends returning to the big leagues if he isn't too old when the Japs are licked.

Casey is in excellent shape, say the sailors who see him play fairly regularly, and probably could "step nine innings of major league baseball any time," as he contends.

The ex-Dodger, who once lost a world series game when one of his pitches escaped from Catcher Mickey Owen and thus enabled the New York Yankees to stage a rally, now pitches and assists in managing a navy base hospital team.

Competition Is Strong

He says that the competition in his present league is fast and is getting better all the time. Many major leaguers play with the various clubs he faces.

Included among these are a couple of Casey's old teammates—Cletus [Boots] Poffenberger and Billy Herman.

Poffenberger, a marine private 1st class, recently reported to a marine raider nine following service on Guam. Herman, a seaman 1st class, is the player-manager of another navy squad. Casey is a navy chief specialist.

KEELEY PINMEN GAIN NORTH END TRAVELING LEAD

The Keeley Beers, rolling a 3,239 total on games of 1,038, 1,100, and 1,101, swept their series from the Thompson Restaurants to take the lead in the North End Traveling league last night. Going into the night's battle the two teams were tied for the lead.

The Keeleys were paced by Carl Winterburg's 706 series, but individual scoring honors went to Thompson's Herb Freitag who turned in a 728 total which included a 276 game.

In other matches Schamberger Schlitz blanked Curtiss Baby Ruth Candy and Gold Crown Beers applied the same treatment to Meister Brau, while Edelweiss Beer and Williams Jewelers were 2 to 1 victors over Chapin & Gore and Marigold Arcade, respectively. Scores:

SUPREME COURT CLEARS CRAMER IN TREASON CASE

Ruling Denies He Helped Nazi Saboteurs

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—The Supreme court today reversed the treason conviction of Anthony Cramer, naturalized German charged with aiding two Nazi saboteurs.

Anthony Cramer

Justice Jackson delivered the court's 5 to 4 opinion, which decided the first treason conviction ever considered by the tribunal. Justices Frankfurter, Rutledge, Murphy, and Roberts concurred in the majority opinion. Justice Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion in which Chief Justice Stone and Justices Black and Reed concurred.

Cramer was accused of helping two of the eight Nazi saboteurs who landed from submarines on the east coast in June, 1942. He was sentenced to 45 years' imprisonment and fined $10,000 by the southern New York federal District court.

Douglas Sums Up Ruling

Douglas in his dissent summed up the two views of the court on the case by stating that the tribunal "does not purport to set aside the conviction for lack of sufficient evidence of traitorous intent. It frees Cramer from this treason charge on the ground that the overt acts charged are insufficient under the constitutional requirement."

Cramer came here from his native Germany in 1925. He was charged with having "traitorously and treasonably" aided saboteurs Werner Thiel and Edward John Kerling in New York City. Six of the saboteurs, including Thiel and Kerling, subsequently were executed, one was sentenced to life imprisonment, and another to 30 years.

Opinion of Jackson

Justice Jackson in a 15,000 word opinion said there was no showing that Cramer gave the Nazi saboteurs information of value to their mission "or indeed that he had any to give."

No effort at secrecy was shown in the trial, Jackson said, for they met in public places. He added:

"Cramer furnished them no shelter, nothing that can be called substance or supplies, and there is no evidence that he gave them encouragement or counsel, or even paid for their drinks."

Justice Douglas' 10,000 word dissent asserted the opinion of the majority was written on a hypothetical state of facts and not on the facts presented by the record.

SEIZE OUSTED ATTORNEY ON DRAFT CHARGE

Edward Roscoe Jones, 41, who was disbarred as a Chicago attorney in January, 1943, for unethical conduct, was arrested yesterday in Phoenix, Ariz., for violating selective service regulations, Spencer J. Drayton, local FBI head, announced.

Drayton said Jones has been delinquent with his draft board since May, 1942, for failing to notify the board of change of address and failing to fill out a board questionnaire.

Jones also is wanted here for questioning about the alleged misappropriation of $11,000 from Mrs. Lettie McClarey, 80, a former client, who now is in the Eastern Star home in Rockford, Drayton said. The FBI head said police in Salem, Marion county, and in St. Louis, Mo., want to question Jones about forgeries and frauds in those cities. Jones was divorced in June, 1943, by Mrs. Virginia Parsons Jones, who is welfare director of the University of Virginia.

NAME EX-FELON, FREE 2 WEEKS, IN RAPE ATTEMPT

Benjamin Napoli, 33, of 1803 N. Winchester av., an ex-convict, was identified last night by a young woman as the man who attempted to rape her in an automobile in the rear of 1852 N. Albany av., last Oct. 12.

He also was identified by Richard Billmeyer, 1850 N. Albany av., park district policeman, as the man who kicked him in the face when Billmeyer ran to the car in response to the girl's screams. Billmeyer said Napoli and a companion, armed with a knife, fled after kicking him.

Napoli, who was released from Waupun penitentiary in Wisconsin two weeks ago after serving a term for larceny, was arrested at North and Milwaukee avs. Police records indicate he also has served terms in Wisconsin for burglary and in Leavenworth for interstate auto theft.

$100,000 SUIT OF M'FETRIDGE IS TRANSFERRED

The suit of William L. McFetridge, president of the Building Service Employes International union [AFL] in which he is seeking to recover $100,000 which he charged a former official misappropriated, was filed yesterday in federal District court, after it had been ordered transferred from Superior court. The defendant is David Sullivan, former vice president, who allegedly misused the money from local 32-B in New York. The case was transferred to federal court because Sullivan lives in New York. It will be heard by Judge William J. Campbell.

SUIT FOR WIDOW SEEKS TO BREAK $550,000 TRUST

The Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company was named defendant in a suit filed in Superior court yesterday by the legal firm of Lord, Bissell & Kadyk in behalf of David J. A. Hayes, conservator for Mrs. Virginia Remmer, 75, widow of Oscar Remmer, former director of the coffee and spice department of the Sprague Warner-Kenny corporation. Mr. Remmer died June 15, 1944.

The bank is named as trustee of a $550,000 trust left by Remmer, income from which goes to his widow for life, with the estate to be divided among 14 Chicago charities after her death.

The suit seeks to set aside the trust on the ground that Remmer, in creating and retaining complete control over assets of the fund, was perpetrating a fraud upon the marital rights of his wife. A recent Supreme court ruling was cited in support of the suit's contention.

Filing of the suit was the first step in Mrs. Remmer's behalf to gain dower rights in the estate, which in Illinois amount to one-half.

BODY OF BABY FOUND CHECKED IN DIME LOCKER

The body of a four day old girl was discovered yesterday in the checkroom of Dearborn station by Joseph Kocsis, manager of the parcel room. Kocsis said the baby was wrapped in a daily newspaper dated April 2.

The body, he said, was checked in one of the station's dime lockers on April 3. The package had been removed, without examination, 24 hours later, as is the custom, and placed in the station's checkroom.

When Kocsis found the body police ordered an examination to determine if the baby was dead when she was placed in the locker.

SUPREME COURT RULES AGAINST PRICING SYSTEM

Basing Points of Glucose Makers Held Improper

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—The Supreme court today ruled improper a manufacturer's use of the basing point system in formulating prices charged for products. Chief Justice Stone delivered the court's 8 to 0 decisions in two companion cases in which Justice Roberts did not participate.

The decisions upheld federal trade commission complaints against the A. E. Staley Manufacturing company, Decatur, Ill., and the Corn Products Refining company, with plants at Argo, Ill., and Kansas City, Mo., both makers of glucose products.

Staley defended the system as one long established and which has "become embedded in the economic life of the country." It has charged glucose prices prevailing in the Chicago market, plus the cost of freight to the buyer's city, altho all of the shipments were made from Decatur.

Used by Competitors

The company contended that at the time it entered the industry the system was used by its competitors, many located in Chicago, and was adopted in good faith.

The trade commission complaint also charged price discriminations by Staley thru certain pricing and booking systems. The company replied these were in accord with long established trade practice.

An interstate commerce commission order limiting a trucker's common carrier authority to transportation of goods assembled by freight forwarders was upheld in a unanimous decision reversing the District court for southern Indiana. Justice Roberts delivered the opinion.

The order affected the Hancock Truck Lines, which contended the ICC lacked authority to limit common carrier operations as it did.

Held Labor Act Violations

The high court ruled 8 to 1 that Republic Aviation corporation violated the national labor relations act by prohibiting employes from soliciting union memberships in its Babylon, L. I., plant during nonworking time, and also by forbidding employes to wear union "shop steward" buttons in the plant. The company said it had been necessary to bar solicitation of all types in the plant.

Similarly, the Le Tourneau company, near Toccoa, Ga., was held in violation of the act by prohibiting distribution of printed matter on company property. The complaint was made by the CIO United Steel Workers whose literature distribution came under the ban. Justice Roberts dissented in both cases.

Refer Man Power Bill to Committee in House

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—Without a dissenting vote, the house today referred the deadlocked man power bill to its military committee for further action. This had the effect of rejecting the senate's request for a new conference to attempt to work out another compromise.

PREDICTS RISE IN HOME COSTS AT WAR'S END

But Upkeep Charges Will Be Lower

The cost of houses after the war may "well be higher," but upkeep charges will be lower, Lewis H. Brown, president of Johns-Manville corporation, said yesterday in a letter to stockholders. He set as a reasonable goal a million new houses a year after the construction industry gets into high gear.

Lewis H. Brown

Construction prospects for the next year or two are uncertain he said, because lumber will remain critically short and as a result home building volume probably will remain low until the Pacific war ends.

Shortages to Continue

"Even final victory cannot be expected to end shortages overnight, and in the first year of peace not more than 400,000 homes may be constructed," he said.

Industrial reconversion will provide large markets for Johns-Manville, he said, because the company's war time building material and industrial products will take an important part in changing over industry to civilian output.

Provide for Improvements

Financial provision is being made for company-wide improvement and expansion plans, Brown said, and a fund for deferred expenditure which amounts to more than 14 million dollars has been established. The company expects to have a pay roll of about 15,000 between V-E day and 1948, about a third more than before the war. Its pay roll is now about 13,000.

Brown said the company plans many new and improved products for peace time markets, including a new asbestos paper that can be made as thin as cigaret paper and is a highly efficient insulating material for electric apparatus.

PRICES DECLINE ON LAMBS; HOGS, CATTLE STEADY

Receipts of sheep and lambs at the Chicago stock yards yesterday were 15,000 head, enough to enable buyers to reduce prices 25 to 35 cents a hundred pounds from the 16 year peaks established last week. Best loads sold at $17.

Almost no changes occurred in prices for other meat animals. Cattle receipts were 16,300 head, smallest Monday total in three weeks and second lowest for Monday since Feb. 5. All sold at steady prices.

Hog receipts were 9,500 head, including shipments direct to packers, a three weeks Monday low. However, four of the last seven Monday totals have been smaller.

RYE LEADS GRAIN PRICES HIGHER; TRADE IS LIGHT

Grain futures rose moderately in light trading yesterday on the Board of Trade. Buying by shorts and commission houses advanced rye 1⅜ to 2¼ cents a bushel over Saturday's finish with the close at the top. Wheat futures gained ⅛ to 1 cent, oats finished unchanged to ⅜ higher, barley rose 1⅛ to 1⅝, and corn ⅜ to ⅞.

An advance of 1⅜ cents in May wheat in Minneapolis, to $1.69⅜, the ceiling price there, was a price making influence because it was accompanied by reports of an aggressive demand for cash wheat.

COLLEGE INVESTMENTS—7
HARVARD UNIVERSITY

A study of Harvard university's 155 million dollar investment portfolio discloses the importance which its financial management attaches to diversification as a means of limiting and balancing risks. The risks foreseen are apparently not only the customary business hazards, but also the possibilities of inflation, for Harvard in the years preceding 1942 increased the proportion of common stocks in its investment holdings.

Including cash, the book value of the general investment fund on June 30, 1944, totaled $158,028,959. Market value was $166,089,433. Common stocks constituted 34.5 per cent of the total book value, and their market value of $58,551,370 was nearly 4 million above the book figure. United States government bonds accounted for 17.6 per cent, and other bonds 32.4 per cent. Real estate amounted to only 1.7 per cent, and mortgages and advances 1.2 per cent.

The common stock investments were distributed among 110 industrial and miscellaneous issues, 26 public utilities, 25 insurance companies, 13 banks, and five rails. Seven real estate trust issues also were held. Sums invested in individual common stocks ranged in most instances from $100,000 to $500,000. An unusually large holding was 35,200 shares of General Electric, carried at $1,377,553.

The industrial list included a number of companies that have extensive holdings of natural resources. Several of the leading oil producing companies were represented, along with Bethlehem Steel, Dome Mines, Homestake Mining, International Nickel, Kennecott Copper, New Jersey Zinc, Noranda Mines, St. Joseph Lead, and United States Smelting.

Among other industrials were Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, American Can, Caterpillar Tractor, Chrysler, Corn Products Refining, Deere, Diamond Match, du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Mills, General Motors, Hazel-Atlas Glass, International Harvester, International Business Machines, Jewel Tea, Liquid Carbonic, Monsanto Chemical, Montgomery Ward, Safeway Stores, Sears-Roebuck, Sherwin-Williams, Swift & Co., Union Carbide and Carbon, Westinghouse Electric, Woolworth, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and several leading tobacco, proprietary drug, and soap shares.

In the following table the percentages of various types of investments owned by Harvard at different periods are compared:

LOWER SALARY MAY ATTRACT KEY EXECUTIVE

Gets Other Benefits, Tax Burden Less

BY THOMAS FURLONG
[Financial Editor]

Big corporations that can afford to pay high salaries for executive talent are having difficulty getting and keeping men in key positions. Ironically, as men advance in the income scale their financial problems multiply. Steeply progressive tax rates make the financial obligations of a man earning $100,000 proportionately more onerous than the obligations of an individual earning $5,000 to $15,000.

Men possessing no other resources than their earning power are not in a position under the present tax system to build up an estate to secure financial independence for themselves and their families.

Salary Big, but Can't Save

An individual who at 45 has reached a position where he gets a salary of $100,000 has no guarantee that his earning power will last more than a few years and it can end much sooner. Under present tax rates such an individual finds it virtually impossible to set aside any substantial amount of his earnings.

Men who face this dilemma are meeting it in various ways. Some are leaving high salaried jobs with big corporations to accept positions paying smaller salaries but carrying with them other compensation. Smaller companies are in position to outbid their larger competitors by offering stock options and retirement annuities to attract executives.

Why such offers are attractive is readily apparent. A man with a taxable income of $100,000, retains $30,920 after paying his taxes. He can accept another position that yields half as much taxable income, or $50,000, and retain $22,920 after taxes.

Where Advantage May Lie

Furthermore, he may be able to bargain with his new employer for a retirement annuity or a stock option that enables him to acquire an ownership interest. Such transfers sometimes involve moving to a smaller community where living expenses are less and expensive social and civic obligations are reduced.

An option to buy stock in a small company with a good promise of growth is attractive not alone because it gives a man ownership in his business but also for tax reasons. If the company develops and the stock rises in value the holder can realize on the gain by paying a tax of only 25 per cent where salary income would be taxed at a much higher rate in the top brackets.

How "Prosperity" Is Burden

Contradictory as it may seem, the chief executive of one of Chicago's largest business enterprises today finds himself in the most adverse financial position in his entire business career. His salary is $100,000 which is substantially higher than any salary he earned prior to 5 years ago. He is 60 years old and has the prospect of perhaps 5 more years at his present salary.

He is retaining after taxes less spendable income than he had prior to his election to the presidency. Promotion to his present job also increased his expenses in numerous ways so that he finds it difficult to meet his bills from month to month. Virtually his entire income is from salary.

Such an individual welcomes an opportunity that offers the promise of financial security when his earning power runs out.

ARMY AIR FORCE MACHINE TOOL SALE EXTENDED

Interest in the sale of 8,617 new, surplus army air forces machine tools at Springfield, Ill., has been so wide-spread the sale will be continued another two weeks to May 5, Peter I. Bukowski, head of the Chicago office of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, told the American Society of Mechanical Engineers last night in the Hamilton hotel.

Another sale May 7 to 12 at the Allison plant in Indianapolis, Ind., will follow, he said. Approximately 1,000 pieces of machinery and equipment will be offered. Bukowski said all the items have been used, and about half are in good condition. The rest are 10 years or older.

Suit Attacks Vote of Stock by Tenn. Gas

A suit was filed in federal District court yesterday by Lt. Col. Curtis B. Dall, a stockholder, against Tennessee Gas and Transmission company and 20 officials and directors asking the court to order cancellation of 29,390 shares of common stock which Dall claimed were issued illegally to three former directors and officers of Tennessee Gas.

Dall requested the court to adjudge the transfer illegal, to order the three men to surrender their certificates, and to enjoin the company from paying dividends on the shares. He asked that if any dividends had been paid, the directors and officers be ordered to pay any damages resulting from the transfer.

Absent from Meeting

Dall, former president and director of Tennessee Gas, charged that after the company had entered into an agreement with Chicago corporation whereby the latter would obtain 90 per cent of Tennessee Gas stock, an unannounced meeting of stockholders was held at which Dall was not present and the three men were voted the stock.

The suit said 9,895 shares were issued to Harry L. Tower of Englewood, N. J.; 10 600 to Wade Thompson of Nashville, Tenn., and 8,895 to John E. Buckingham of Kentucky. Total value of the stock was placed at $146,950.

Three Chicagoans Named

Three Chicago officials of Tennessee Gas among the 20 named defendants in the suit are Richard Wagner, chairman; Richard K. Cartlidge, vice president, and John R. Effinger, assistant secretary. Wagner is president of Chicago corporation and Cartlidge secretary and treasurer.

Wagner last night said he had no comment to make on the suit.

OPA Studies Price Effects of Mine Pact

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—John L. Lewis' new contract with the soft coal operators was approved today by the war labor board, and the office of price administration at once began to prepare a report on its effect on coal prices. The agreement must be approved by Economic Stabilizer Davis if price relief is required by the operators. Both the producers and United Mine Workers have petitioned an increase in coal prices, estimated at about 25 cents a ton, to offset added pay roll costs.

The solid fuels administration and the OPA will meet tomorrow for another conference on the price question. The OPA expects to present its findings to Davis by Thursday.

Lifts Day Wage by 81 Cents

The WLB found that the contract boosted the average miner's take home pay 81 cents a day, instead of the $1.07 which the contract indicates. The inside miner's base earnings were increased from $8.50 to $10 a day. Spread over a six day week, the increase totaled only $6.44 or $1.07 a day, because of premium pay now being received for part of Friday and all Saturday work.

Other workers outside were to be given like increases. Tonnage workers were to have daily earnings boosted one-ninth. This and other factors reduced the average to 81 cents, WLB statisticians figured.

COMPLETE ILLINOIS PACT

Springfield, Ill., April 23 (AP)—The Progressive Mine Workers and the Coal Producers Association of Illinois today announced a new two year wage agreement affecting 17,000 members of the AFL union which would raise the average underground worker's pay from $7 to $8.50 per seven hour day by providing $1.50 travel compensation.

TARIFF VIEWS GET WALLACE IN ORAL SLUGFEST

Second Rough Ride at Hearings

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 23—Commerce Secretary Wallace ran into an oral slugfest with Republican congressmen today as he urged the house ways and means committee to authorize lower tariff barriers to enhance global economic collaboration in the post-war era.

The former Vice President, who was accused of being "cockeyed" at a senate nearing on the same issue last week, appeared before the house committee in support of a bill to extend the reciprocal trade agreements act three years and empower the President to cut import duties 50 per cent from present levels.

Defeat of this measure, Wallace said, would tell the world that "the United States has gone isolationist" and thus create widespread economic friction among nations. He predicted national disturbances thruout the world, including "revolutions" in South American countries, whose economies he contended would be disrupted, if trade agreements are not continued.

Expects Trade Gains

Lower tariffs, Wallace continued, would boost American imports and exports, and thus aid in creating the 60 million post-war jobs the administration has promised.

"Do you expect," asked Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.], ranking minority committee member, "to create 60 million jobs by cutting import duties on foreign cheap labor goods and thus destroying so-called inefficient industries in this country?"

"I'm not beating my wife any more," Wallace replied.

"That should go in the society columns," Knutson remarked.

Knutson then recalled that Wallace predicted in 1934, when the trade agreements act was first enacted, that it would create prosperity and promote friendliness among nations.

"Instead of friendliness," he said, "we had the worst war in history. How did that happen?"

Wallace retorted that the war resulted from unsound policies of the 1920s, including high tariff barriers.

"Isn't it nice to have an alibi?" Knutson shot back. "I envy you your naiveness."

"I pity yours," snapped Wallace.

Question "Too Complicated"

The congressman then asked him whether cutting tariffs was not comparable to lowering immigration barriers? The question, Wallace said, was too complicated to answer offhand.

"Then I'll ask some one of ordinary intelligence," Knutson retorted. Rep. Eberharter [D., Pa.], an administration stalwart, protested against Knutson's "lack of respect for the witness," and pro-Wallace spectators burst into applause.

Altho charging that Republican policies of the 1920s bred both war and economic depression, Wallace surprised listeners by tribute to former President Hoover, secretary of commerce in that period, for helping to boost our exports. Wallace said he is studying Hoover's policies to learn how he did it.

Under further hammering from Knutson, the witness protested that he does not advocate an "economy of scarcity" in spite of his program as agriculture secretary.

"I have always advocated an economy of abundance" Wallace said. "The pig killing was a drastic measure, required by an emergency, to boost purchasing power."

Reduced tariffs, he predicted, could lead to post-war exports of 10 billion dollars, discourage government control of foreign trade, and reduce "international economic friction."

Meat Relief Soon Is Doubted; Proposes Single Food Czar

Assail Subsidy Plan

The new, vastly expanded meat subsidy program, announced by the government Sunday as an attempt to alleviate the meat shortage, can have little effect on supplies until fall at least, and stocks will become even shorter in the meantime, stock yards sources asserted yesterday.

The new 10 point plan will mean little to the housewife, they predicted, and little more to the farmer. The first relief they could foresee would be an increase late next fall in pork tonnage, which would not be caused by anything the government has done.

More Hardships, Institute Says

"The new program will in many of its aspects work further hardships on the cattle and beef industry," the American Meat institute commented. "It does not hold promise of increasing the over-all supply of beef for the American public, nor will it eliminate the strangling losses being imposed on the business.

"The program will not accomplish what is intended for consumers, cattle feeders, or meat packers. When the price of cattle goes down, especially in the case of lower grades of grass fed cattle, which will be coming to market soon, losses in the beef business may be even more severe."

An expected increase in the pig crop will be from voluntary action, stock yards spokesmen said. An increase in the floor price from $12.50 a hundredweight to $13 [after a cut from $13.75 last October] was announced long after sows had been bred for spring pigs to be marketed this fall, they pointed out.

Provision "May Help"

One provision of the new plan—to encourage cattle feeding by cancelation of a reduction in the subsidy on choice cattle and of a scheduled 50 cent reduction in the cattle ceiling, set for July 2—"may possibly" help in encouraging feeding for heavier weights, it was said.

Anything the government does now to encourage later production necessarily will mean smaller current production, the stock yards men charged.

Cut Supply Tangle

Appointment of a food "czar" responsible for food from production thru distribution was advocated yesterday by Mrs. Rose Marie Kiefer, secretary-manager of the National Association of Retail Grocers. She asserted it is the only way to relieve America's meat shortage and avert other food shortages.

Rose Marie Kiefer

Mrs. Kiefer urged that the "czar" undertake promptly to straighten out the tangled food situation, and especially the meat situation, with the following program:

1. Apprise himself of the total present supply, what is available for all claimant agencies, and what is already in their hands.

Study Foreign Needs

2. Learn the actual food needs of foreign nations, including a study of eating habits.

3. Reëstablish confidence on the part of producers, processors, and distributors by removing uncertainties about future regulations.

4. Give the same consideration to foods as has been given to war materials.

5. Give serious attention to equitable distribution. This may require closer supervision of producers, feeders, slaughterers, processors, packers, and distributors, to make sure the lifetime investment of legitimate business is not sacrificed to war profiteers and gamblers, Mrs. Kiefer said.

Lift Inspection Curbs

6. Make possible use by the army and nav; and other government agencies of carefully local or state inspected meats from other than federally inspected plants.

7. Seek increased production by encouraging maximum production, maximum feeding, maximum slaughtering, and maximum orderly and equitable distribution thru legitimate trade channels.

Washington, D. C., April 23 (AP)—Legislation to reduce reserve requirements of federal reserve banks won house banking committee approval today.

TRACTION PLAN SENT TO STATE BOARD AND SEC

'Worthy' of Study, Igoe Decides

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

Judge Michael L. Igoe of federal District court held yesterday that the city's plan to purchase and unify the surface and elevated lines under public ownership was "worthy of consideration," at the same time pointing to several ways in which the scheme might fail. He recommended that an alternative plan of reorganization and unification be kept alive by the city and the existing companies.

The judge said that the city had made no definite offer to purchase, quoting a purchase price contingent on a referendum election, ability to borrow the money [75 millions for the surface lines and 12 millions for the "L"], and approval of legal intricacies by the Illinois Supreme court.

Financial Uncertainty Cited

He added that letters of banking firms interested in floating an 87 million dollar security issue were so "hedged about by restrictions" that it is impossible for the court to find there is a "reasonable certainty" that the city can borrow the needed funds, as anticipated, thru the sale of bonds secured only by earnings.

The court ordered the plan sent to the Illinois commerce commission and the securities and exchange commission, which are asked to certify that the plan is fair and in the public interest.

The advice of these bodies is not binding on the court, but the bankruptcy statutes require submission to them for advisory action. The I. C. C. is asked to make its report on the city plan on June 6 and the SEC is to report on it Aug. 15.

Trustees' Plan Before Boards

Judge Igoe already has asked the I. C. C. and SEC to rule on the fairness of the so-called trustees' plan, a private enterprise unification based on a city ordinance of 1941. Another plan dependent on this ordinance was rejected by the commerce commission two years ago on the ground of financial unsoundness. The I. C. C. is to report on the trustees' plan May 16 and the SEC, May 10.

The court said he expected the city to keep the 1941 ordinance in effect until it is certain the public ownership scheme is successful.

The council voted without opposition to submit the metropolitan authority law, just passed by the legislature, and the new ordinance to referendum on June 4.

Registration of Aurora Firm Is Revoked by SEC

Philadelphia, Pa., April 23 (AP)—The broker-dealer registration of Charles E. Greene & Co., Aurora, Ill., was revoked today by the securities and exchange commission. The SEC said the partnership, of Charles E. and Jeanette Greene, had been enjoined permanently by the United States District court from engaging in or continuing certain practices in the purchase and sale of securities.

The shares represented holdings of Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, which will use proceeds to retire part of its $13,695,000 of 4½ per cent bonds due in 1954.

STOCKS EXTEND ADVANCE, RAIL ISSUES LEADING

Packers, Medium Motors Gain

New York, April 23 (AP)—Investment demand for rails and stocks with good peace prospects today helped the market edge to a new average high for nearly eight years altho many leaders failed to join the upswing.

Sizable blocks of medium priced motors and packers expanded activity in the forenoon. Volume and prices tapered after midday but the trend hardened in the final half hour. Favorites closed 2 or more points higher. Transfers totaled 1,380,000 shares compared with 1,130,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite was up 0.3 at 64.4, a peak since 1937. The rail average was up 0.8 at 40.4, also a new top. Of 932 issues traded, 479 advanced against 249 down, and 204 unchanged.

Packing stocks were buoyed by plans to boost government meat subsidies. Potential orders for new automobiles helped the motors. The outlook for heavy shipping even when Germany collapses aided the carriers.

RAIL BONDS STRONG

New York, April 23 (AP)—In the most active trading since early in January, a sizable group of secondary railroad bonds today advanced major fractions to more than 2 points. Many higher priced corporate issues reached new peaks for recent years. Sales of $14,630,000 were highest since Jan. 12 and compared with $12,850,000 last Friday. The Associated Press average of 20 rails was at a new top since 1937 at 100.2 and the 10 foreign bonds average attained a new top at 72.8.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE

Prices closed higher in turnover of 50,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Among volume leaders, Nash-Kelvinator advanced 1⅜ to a 1945 peak of 20⅞ and Admiral corporation rose 1¼. New York Central was up 1, Armour up ¼, and Commonwealth Edison unchanged. Also at new highs were North Western, up 1⅜; Illinois Central, up 1½, and Diamond T Motor, up 1¼.

To Corporation Executives

EXECUTIVES of progressive corporations realize that this is a highly advantageous time for "getting their financial houses in order." They are financing now so that, when normal activities are resumed, they can concentrate on production with no problems of financing to interfere. As one of the nation's experienced underwriters, we will be glad to discuss any contemplated financing with executives.
